MISSISSIPPI FLOOD TOLL NOW 150

GREENE COUNTY FLOOD RELIEF QUOTA FIXED AT $1,575

RED CROSS CHAPTER LAUNCHES EFFORTS TO COLLECT AMOUNT

Appeal Broadcast In Churches—Donations Being Received

PROCLAMATION

Office of the Mayor,
City of Xenia, Ohio.

To the people of Greene County, Greetings—

The President of the United States has called on the people of this county to raise $1500.00 quickly to help the people who are suffering from the greatest flood in the history of this country. Let all the clubs, lodges, civic organizations, business houses and individuals of the county get behind the local chapter of the American Red Cross and do this work in a day. Haste and prompt giving means the saving of lives. Send checks or money to Vern L. Faires, Treasurer, Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, No. 9 West Main St., Xenia, Ohio. The need is urgent.

JOHN W. PRUGH,
Mayor of the City of Xenia.
Monday morning, April 25, 1927.

Greene County's quota for relief work in the devastated Mississippi Valley flood area has been fixed at $1,575, according to a telegram received Monday by W. W. Galloway, chairman Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, from national Red Cross headquarters at Washington, D. C.

Citizens are contributing generously to the Red Cross fund being raised and it is hoped to have the full amount raised by Thursday of this week. Voluntary contributions are being sought but if the goal cannot be reached by this method, the local chapter expects to move swiftly to organize a campaign of personal solicitation.

Seventy-five notices of the nation-wide appeal for aid ware sent out over the week-end and were read during the Sunday services at all churches in the county.

In some cases collections were taken and in other instances personal subscriptions were given. Citizens are responding in a satisfactory manner, according to Chairman Galloway.

Cash contributions are being recieved in Xenia by Vern L. Faires, county treasurer, at the D. E. Anderson insurance agency, W. Main St., but no official check has been made on the money already turned in.

At the present it is considered impractical to accept donations of clothing or other miscellaneous supplies.

Red Cross officials request that all business firms, lodges, churches, clubs and individuals make out their checks and turn in contributions at once to Mr. Faires to expediate the collection.

Residents of the outlying districts are also responding splendidly to the appeal, it is announced. Township chairmen of the county chapter are hard at work obtaining subscriptions and organization of the relief work in the various townships is moving rapidly.

Clifton has turned in more than $175 and Cedarville approximately $100. Other villages have not been heard from.

The Red Cross board held a meeting at its headquarters at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon for the purpose of hearing reports of representatives over the county and to formulate further plans for the country-wide collection.

Assurances have been received by Chairman Galloway that all parts of the county will respond generously, especially in view of the urgent need of the flood sufferers.

The budget committee of the First United Presbyterian Church, Xenia, announced Monday that all monies given at the Sunday morning service next week, aside from the regular envelope offering, will be forwarded to the Red Cross for the relief work.

COMMISSION FAILS TO CONTROL ARMS

GENEVA, April 25:—The special League of Nations commission preparing an agenda for the international control of arms and their manufacture adjourned today without having completed its work.

Italy announced it opposed the control of government manufacture of arms.

Hugh Gibson, American delegate, announced that if control was limited to the private manufacture of arms the United States was not interested.

BRIDE DISAPPEARS

CLEVELAND, O., April 25.—Orville Hudson, 40, today is seeking his bride, whom he married at 2 p. m. Saturday, only to have her disappear within a few hours according to his story to detectives. Hudson said he met the girl about a week ago.

MELLON CONTINUES SILENCE ON POLICY REGARDING HAYNES

Admits That Thousands Want Ohioan Kept As Dry Chief

WASHINGTON, Apr. 25.—More than three thousand communications, most of them urging the permanent appointment of acting Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, have been received by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, it was stated at the treasury today.

Except for this statement the treasury made no official comment on the charge of William H. Stayton, national chairman of the association against the prohibitoin amendment, that Wayne B. Wheeler, anti-saloon league chief, is using "high power propaganda" to force Mellon to give Haynes a permanent commission at the head of the government's dry army.

A majority of the letters urging Haynes' appointment are from anti-saloon league members or officials. A considerable number of communications have been sent to Mellon opposing Haynes, officials declared.

Unofficially, the treasury was pleased with Stayton's so-called "expose" of the anti-saloon league campaign. Officials frankly admitted that the Anti-Saloon League had exerted its utmost influence to obtain Haynes' appointment and was continuing the drive to force Mellon to name him permanent commissioner.

Similar pressure is being exerted on the White House, many letters and telegrams having been sent to President Coolidge relative to Haynes, officials said.

Stayton's assertion that on four occasions superior officer of Haynes in the treasury had slated him for removal, but that Wheeler's appeal to the White House saved him has been common gossip at the treasury since General L. C. Andrews, dry chief, became assistant secretary.

Andrews removed from Haynes all his authority in the dry machine, but was unsuccessful in getting him off the government payroll.

It was generally understood that the prohibition reorganization bill was a final effort to eliminate Haynes, but again, officials said, he has been saved by the Anti-Saloon League.

A determined fight is now in progress to prevent Haynes' permanent appointment. Andrews and officials in the prohibition bureau, are said to be still hopeful that they can bring about the appointment of another candidate for the commissionership. Final action on the dry appointment is expected this week.

CYRUS M'CORMICK WEDS "STENO"

NEW YORK, April 25.—A sensation was caused in society circles today by the revelation that Cyrus H. McCormick, of Chicago, multi millionaire chairman of the board of the International Harvester Company, had secretly married his secretary, Miss Alice M. Hoit, at Dublin, N. H., last Friday. McCormick is 68; his bride is said to be about 40. The couple sailed Friday night for Europe.

On the return of the couple to this country they will reside in the McCormick mansion in Chicago.

McCormick's first wife, who was Harriet Hammond, died in 1921, after a long illness. She was prominent in many philanthoric projects.

It is understood the two sons will join their father and stepmother in Europe in a few weeks.

INDIAN MARATHON TO START JUNE 14

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—The 480-mile marathon over the Redwood Highway from San Francisco to Grant's Pass, Ore., will start on the morning of June 14, the committee in charge of the long race announced today. Only Indian runners are eligible to compete, it was said. Two thousand dollars in prizes are offered.

SMACK! KERENSKY AGAIN SLAPPED, THIS TIME BY DISGRUNTLED FORMER RUSSIAN OFFICER

Ex-Premier Insulted Second Time Since Coming To America—Chicago Banquet Almost Becomes Free-For-All

CHICAGO, April 25.—The identity of the man who slapped the face of Alexander Kerensky, former premier of Russia's provisional government, during a banquet last night at the Palmer House, was revealed today as Dr. Boris Gregory Telesnitsky, prominent North Shore physician and former officer in the czar's army.

The attack on Kerensky, the honor guest at the banquet, threw the dinner-jacketed guests into a riot that for a time threatened to develop into an old-fashioned free-for-all.

As the former premier was making his way to the banquet table, a tall dark man rose from his seat and landed a resounding smack with his right palm on Kerensky's cheek.

"That's for what you did to the officers of the Russian army," said his assailant.

Several of Kerensky's aids leaped up but another stranger stood up beside the attacker and together they fought off Kerensky's friends until detectives arrived.

Dr. Telesnitsky was released on his own recognizance. His friend proved to be Lieut. Serge Busch, also a former officer in the Russian army.

"I slapped Kerensky," explained Dr. Telesnitsky, "because I wanted to put some dignified indignity upon him, to insult him in order to call public attention to what he is doing in this country."

FIREMEN SEARCH BLAST RUINS FOR BODIES; 11 KNOWN DEAD

DETROIT, April 25.—With the known dead in the Briggs Manufacturing Company disaster placed at eleven, firemen today continued to pour water into the smouldering ruins of the plant where the bodies of five more employes are thought to be buried.

Six of eleven other severely burned victims have only a slight chance to live, according to receiving hospital doctors.

Searchers who dug in the smoking ruins of the plant all day yesterday unearthed only one charred body, which morgue officials were unable to identify. The other victims died of burns in hospitals.

Meanwhile Prosecutor Robert M. Toms started investigation to see if any criminal responsibility attacks to the explosion and fire, the most destructive in Detroit history.

John H. French of the Briggs Company officially estimated the loss at $2,000,000.

Coroner James E. Burgess has announced that he will conduct an inquest into the disaster but the date has not as yet been fixed. The state department of labor and industry also is conducting an investigation.

THREE PRISONERS ESCAPE WORKHOUSE

CLEVELAND, O., April 25.—Authorities today were searching for three prisoners who escaped from Warrensville workhouse during the week end. The trio escaped after sawing bars. They were William Murphy, 28, Adam Lawrence, 26, and Sam Clark, 35.

Perfect Flying Saves Lives Of Youthful Passengers

NEW YORK, April 25.—Aviator Clarence D. Chamberlin, who, with Aviator Bert Acosta, recently set a new world record for sustained airplane flight, was again a hero today.

Ten minutes after the Wright-Bellanca plane which broke the world's endurance record was christened yesterday for its projected Paris flight, death and disaster threatened.

But a tragedy was averted through the coolness and skill of Chamberlin.

After Eloyse Levine, 9, daughter of Charles A. Levine, chairman of the Columbia Aircraft Corp., which built the plane, had broken a bottle of ginger ale over the nose and christened it the "Columbia," at Curtiss Field, L. I., Chamberlin rewarded the little girl, and Grace Jonas, 15, daughter of Ralph Jonas, president of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, with a ride in the air.

Immediately another plane flew alongside the "Columbia" and Pilot Dean C. Smith and Paul Herman, mechanic, gestured to Chamberlin, then held up a wheel to apprise him of the trouble.

Chamberlin then sped to Mitchel Field and slowly descended in long graceful spirals. He shut down the plane's speed to a minimum and tipped it over to the right side. He landed on the right wheel and skimmed along gracefully. When the plane had almost stopped it tipped to the left and damaged side, and stopped—a perfect landing.

The damage to the plane was slight and plans for starting the Paris flight in a few days were not abandoned.

EX-GOVERNOR ROSS ASKS DEMOCRATS TO PROVE TOLERANCE

Tells Women Issue Must Be Met By Their Party

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Ex-Governor Nellie Ross of Wyoming today called upon the Democratic party to "demonstrate that it stands four-square upon the principle of religious freedom which was the chief cornerstone upon which this government was builded."

In a speech to the National Women's Democratic Club, she said: "I am a Protestant unalterably by birth and conviction, and yet I should like to see a well-qualified Catholic elected to the highest office in the nation just to prove that this is, in reality, a republic in which we live and not one in name only.

"I denounce as unworthy of the precious heritage of American citizenship, any declaration by policy or practice, that prejudice rather than liberal principles shall prevail in this government.

"I am not desiring even to suggest to your minds any particular aspirant; certainly not to urge the qualifications of any potential candidate. It is only the principle involved in this subject that I would emphasize.

"It looks now as if a leading issue that is going to face us as Democrats this year is whether or not a Catholic can be nominated for the presidency of the Democratic party. It is an issue that cannot be dodged or evaded. Distasteful as it is to us all, it is well to have it brought in to the open, I think. I hope the Democratic women will sanction no policy that deprives any person in the United States of full rights and privileges because of his religious affiliations."

MEXICO CONTINUES DRIVE ON REBELS

MEXICO CITY, April 25.—The Mexican government today continued its efforts to quell the rebel movement. Reiterating allegations that Catholic church leaders have incited rebellion officials are making a wide search for several clergymen who are still in Mexico.

The leading members of the Catholic episcopate have now been deported from Mexico, but there are still several bishops who are in hiding.

The military efforts to wipe out the rebellious movement continue in Jalisco and a band of twenty-five rebels who made an attack on the Laredo train a fortnight ago has been captured and their leader Mandoza killed.

TWENTY MORE LIVES TAKEN IN DISTRICT AS THOUSANDS FLEE

Sixteen Die When House Collapses—Predict Total Toll Will Reach 350—Hoover Asks For Ten Millions

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 25.—Sweeping before it death and destruction, the rampant Mississippi River today had added twenty deaths to its toll of life and flooded several additional towns during the past twenty-four hours.

Red Cross directors have established the greatest relief expedition in recent years. Contributions are pouring in from all parts of the country in caring for 150,000 refugees.

Collapse of a house harboring sixteen negroes four miles north of Greenville, Miss., yesterday sent all of the negroes to a horrible death. Three others died of disease at Greenville, due to the floods, one of pneumonia, one of mumps and a third of exposure. A white man was drowned at Pine Bluff, Ark.

The twenty additional deaths during the past twenty-four hours have brought the death toll of the greatest flood in the history of the Mississippi River up to approximately 150.

About 10,000,000 avres of farmlands are under water as a result of the floods. Army engineers, after a survey, announced that 6,000,000 acres are flooded in Arkansas and Mississippi alone.

Damage to crops will run into millions of dollars. The engineers said that 9,400 square miles in Mississippi and Arkansas were still under water. The engineers have not checked the flooded areas of Tennessee, Missouri, Kentucky and Louisiana say the total land will probably be about 10,000,000 acres when the final tabulation is made.

TOLL NEARS 350

J. S. Allen, levee engineer at Greenville, Miss., declared today that 200 would be a small estimate for the flood's toll of human life for the area from Vicksburg to the scene of the delta break at Mound's Landing alone. If this estime is correct for Mississippi, more than 350 live have been lost in the floods.

Five thousand of the 15,000 population of Greenville were still in the water soaked city today with a prediction that three feet of water will be added to the depth of the flood waters. More than 4,000 refugees, mostly negroes, were still on the Greenville levee today, awaiting transportation to Vicksburg for safety.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Apr. 25.—Five million dollars will "barely do half the job" set out for the Red Cross in the Mississippi flood stricken area, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover said today after a preliminary survey of the urgent tasks already facing the mobilized forces.

HOOVER MAKES SURVEY

At least $10,000,000 will be needed for a work which will require maintenance of the emergency agencies along a thousand miles of river front between St. Louis and New Orleans, he said.

"Never before have we faced an undertaking of such proportion," Hoover said after consulting with Harry M. Baker, national director of Red Cross disaster relief.

Baker, who has been in Memphis army, navy, public health and Red for several days co-ordinating with Cross activities throughout the entire flooded region, gave Secretary Hoover his latest reports from the thirty-four Red Cross concentration points along the river below Cairo, Illinois.

With the crest of the flood still to reach the lower Mississippi, todays' reports to Hoover showed estimated dead of at least 130 in seven state, with 150,000 already homeless or dependent upon relief agencies for food.

Hoovers's experience in famine relief throughout Europe during the war enabled him to appraise the situation in fifteen minute's conversation with Baker.

"Many of these homeless will have to be cared for by relief organizations for as much as six weeks," Hoover said.

"There are already more than 100,000 known to be pressing for aid at concentration camps and local relief stations. Feeding and housing this multitude alone for a single month, even without hospitalization and sanitary activities would tax the present visible resources of the Red Cross."

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The nation is responding generously to the appeal of the Red Cross for funds for flood relief.

It was announced at headquarters today that approximately $1,000,000 have already been secured. The minimum goal is $5,000,000.

During the absence of acting Chairman James L. Fieser, George E. Scott of Chicago, one of the war time leaders of the Red Cross, is in charge of national headquarters. He arrived here this morning to begin his duties. Fieser is on a trip through the flood area with Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Henry M. Baker, Red Cross director of relief, has established temporary general relief headquarters in Memphis.

Appeals for aid continued to pour in today from all over the stricken sections. Relief urgently is needed from Vicksburg, Miss., southward.

A dispatch from Vicksburg said that many of the refugees there were without food and clothing. Supplies are going forward to them rapidly.

ARGUMENTS TO JURY PRESENTED MONDAY FOR HEWITT TRIAL

Expected Case Will Reach Jury Monday Or Early Tuesday

JEFFERSON, O., April 25.—The fate of Floyd Hewitt, 16, alleged murderer of Mrs. Fred Brown and her five year old son at Conneaut last February, will probably be in the hands of eight men and four women late today or early Tuesday.

All evidence in the trial of the Conneaut youth, on the direct charge of beating little Fred Brown Jr. to death, has been presented and nothing remains except arguments and the charge of the presiding Judge Charles R. Sargent, before the case goes to the jury.

Hewitt predicted Saturday that he would be saved from the electric chair, according to jail attendants.

Prosecutor C. B. Cook, has expressed his belief that state rebuttal witnesses so thoroughly riddled the "alibi" claimed by the defense, that there can be little doubt regarding the outcome of the case.

Four hours have been assigned for state and defense argument, respectively.

FARMER HANGS

MARYSVILLE, O., Apr. 25.—Elmer Patrick, 60, York Township farmer, was found hanging by a rope in his barn here today. His throat had been slashed. He had been dead several hours.

SNYDER CASE FIGHT EXPECTED TO HINGE ABOUT CONFESSION

Prosecutor Starts Opening Statement As Trial Begins

COURTHOUSE, Long Island City, N. Y., April 25.—District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe began his address to the jury at 11:10 o'clock this morning at the trial of Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray for the murder of the woman's middle-aged husband, Albert Snyder, who was bludgeoned to death on the morning of March 20 as he slept.

Mrs. Snyder's alleged confession that she was present when her lover beat her middle-aged husband to death with an iron bar as he slept is to be the focal point around which the greatest legal fight of the trial is to be fought.

District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe will attempt during the course of the trial to introduce as evidence a twelve-page document signed by Mrs. Snyder in which the blonde defendant confessed she witnessed the actual killing of Albert Snyder early in the morning of Sunday, March 20.

"The statement was obtained under duress and therefore is not admissable as evidence," her attorneys contend.

OPENS CONGRESS

ROME, Apr. 25.—Premier Mussolini today opened the International Wheat Congress with thirty-eight nations participating.

DOMESTIC QUARREL RESULTS IN DEATH OF ONE-THREE INJURED

MARTINS FERRY, O., Apr. 25.—One is dead, one is reported dying and two are suffering serious bullet wounds at City Hospital here today as the result of a domestic quarrel. Peter Gallagher, 27, Yorkville confectioner, was shot and instantly killed last night, police report, as he sat in the kitchen of his aunt, Mrs. Mary Thomas.

Mrs. Thomas and her 19-year-old daughter, Goldie, were shot by George Thomas, 52, estranged husband, who then turned one of his two pistols upon himself.

Hospital authorities reported Thomas may recover, but his wife's condition is expected to prove fatal. Goldie Thomas was shot through the mouth, and will recover. A son of the estranged couple, escaped by running from the scene, while a married daughter turned off the lights and escaped injury.

The entire party had just returned to the home of Mrs. Thomas after attending Easter services at a Greek church.

AMERICANS RETURN FIRE FROM CHINESE

LONDON, April 25.—American and British warships have engaged with Chinese batteries at Suking, acording to an admirality radio from Cringkiang today.

The dispatch stated that the United States Gunboat Peary and the British gunboats Kneppel and Wilsey were fired on from the bluff at Suking and they returned the fire with their main armaments.

BOOSTING XENIA

---is more than merely "thinking" or "saying" good things about the town. Real, honest-to-goodness BOOSTING means that every citizen of Xenia must carry out the following principles every day he lives here:

1. Assume his share of civic responsibilities and contribute his moral and material support to any movement toward good government. An efficient yet human civic administration is the backbone of a prosperous town.

2. Do his part in getting and keeping good churches and schools, for these instituitions are the builders of progress for the coming generation.

3. Patronize home merchants and professional men, for they are mainly responsible for the comforts, pleasures and opportunities that this community affords to its citizens.

4. Contribute his every effort toward keeping our streets and yards clean and attractive. An attractive town is good business, for a healthy atmosphere is one of the first requisites for drawing new citizens of the right sort.

5. Be generous in thought, word and deed to his neighbors and fellow citizens. Most of the happiness in Life is gotten by doing for others and entering into the spirit of co-operation.

These are the principles that, when every person does his best toward actually carrying them out, will bring us all prosperity and happiness. We prosper only as those about us prosper, so---

Every loyal citizen of Xenia is urged to become an active, working partner with us---let's do some REAL boosting for our town by MAKING IT BETTER IN EVERY WAY.

WOMAN'S CLUB, OLDEST IN COUNTRY, TO CELEBRATE.

Mrs. Mary Kinney will be hostess to the members of the oldest woman's club in the United States, when she entertains the Woman's Club of Xenia, in celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the club's founding, at her home on E. Second St., next Thursday.

The Woman's Club of Xenia has the honor of being the first society of its kind organized in the United States and is even older than Sorosis, which has often claimed the title of being first in the country. The Woman's Club was organized in Xenia in 1867, antedating Sorosis one year.

Mrs. Kinney has issued invitations to the thirty active members of the club and all associate and former members from out of the city to attend the anniversary party. The guests will be served luncheon at noon, followed by a program, the details of which are being kept a secret from the larger part of the membership. The event is a "red-letter day" in the annals of Xenia literary history and one to which Mrs. Kinney and the club members have looked forward with interest for some time.

Among the charter members of the Woman's Club, were the following, all of whom are deceased: Mrs. Charles Merrick, Mrs. Moses Barlow, Mrs. Samuel Newton, Mrs. M. C. Allison, Mrs. George S. Ormsby, Mrs. Downey, Mrs. Henrietta Monroe, Kate Edwards and Helen M. Walker.

The first president was Mrs. Monroe, the second, Mrs. Barlow. The club was organized as a purely literary club and has always confined itself to literary work. For some years it maintained a lecture course, during the winter season, bringing such people to Xenia as Theodore Tilton, Anna Dickinson, George Kannan and Paul DeChailu. The temperance crusade of the '70's caused a temporary cessation of the club's activities, but it resumed its work and there has been no break in its organization since that time. Mrs. Kinney is a former president of the club. The club is a member of the state and national federations of women's clubs.

MR. AND MRS. DODDS ARE HONORED BY OFFICE FORCE

Mr. Frank Dodds, former official with The George Dodds and Sons Granite and Marble Works, who is leaving with Mrs. Dodds this week for their new home in Central New York State, on the shores of one of the Finger Lakes, was honored by the office and sales force of the Dodds Company, with a surprise party at the home of Mr. Charles Bone, N. King St., Friday evening.

The entire office and sales force and their families attended the affair, which included about twenty people. The office employes presented Mr. Dodds with a handsome gift in token of appreciation of his association in the Dodds Company.

An impromptu program was arranged, including several musical numbers by talent present.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodds will motor to their new home in the east, leaving in a few days.

MISS JACKSON IS HOSTESS TO V. J. B. CLUB

Miss Edith Jackson capably filled the role of hostess when she received the V. J. B. Club at her home on Dayton Ave., Friday evening. Her sister, Mrs. Guy Toms was the assistant hostess.

About twenty-eight young women were entertained. Prize winners in the contests were the Misses Anna Riley, Lemma Saunders, Fern Griffith, Mildred Cross and Ethel Boyd, and Mrs. Lawrence Luttrell.

Guests of the club members were the Misses Helen Ford, Fern Griffith, Thelma Peelle, and and Grace Simbro. Yellow and white were carried out in the refreshment and decoration appointments.

CATHERINE GREENE TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Mrs. A. C. Messenger, as state chairman of national defense, will talk on her work, and in her discussion will speak of much of interest to all members of the D. A. R.

Mrs. Messenger, Mrs. C. R. Hinkle and Mrs. R. O. Wead will assist during the meeting.

GLADY COMMUNITY CLUB

Glady Community Club will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening, April 28, at 7 o'clock. A covered dish supper will be served for the club members and school children. Each family is asked to bring a covered dish, sandwiches, plates and silver. A good program with music has been arranged and everyone is invited.

Mrs. Frank B. Scott, W. Second St., returned Monday from Columbus, where she spent the past ten days with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Scott.

The Current Eevnts Club of this city will be entertained by Mrs. George H. Hudson, at her home on Harvard Blvd., Dayton, Tuesday.

Members of Miss Elsie Canby's Sunday School Class, First M. E. Church, will enjoy a "hike" and wiener roast, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Bankerd, and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Hickman and son, Vernon, spent the week end at the Lewistown reservoir at a summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McCall, Upper Bellbrook Pike, had as their week-end guests, their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon McCall, and little son, Reynoldsburg, O., and Miss Eunice Graham, Columbus, O.

O. E. S. Thimble Club will be entertained by Mrs. Fred Shultz and her committee at the Masonic Temple, Tuesday evening, April 26. A program will be arranged for the evening and a good attendance is desired.

EPISCOPAL AUXILIARY TO MEET HERE WEDNESDAY.

Delegates from several cities will come to Xenia Wednesday for the meeting of the Dayton Convocation of the Episcopal Woman's Auxiliary, or Missionary Society, to be held at Christ Episcopal Church.

The meeting will begin with the service of the Holy Communion at 10:30, Wednesday morning which will be followed by a business session and address by the president of the society for this diocese, Miss Catherine Morrison.

Luncheon will be served at 12:45 in the parish house by the women of the First Lutheran Church.

The feature of the afternoon session will be an address by Deaconess Harriet M. Bedell, of Stephen's Village, Alaska. She will tell of her work among Eskimo women and children in a region just barely south of the Arctic Circle.

PETITIONS ASKING RELEASE OF COUNTY PRISONERS FILED

Petitions seeking permanent release from the County Jail of Fred Harris, Bennie Lewis, Agnew White and Earl Cline under the insolvent debtor's law, were filed in Probate Court Saturday by Attorney F. L. Johnson.

Probate Judge S. C. Wright has not set a date for a hearing of the applications.

The four prisoners filed a schedule of debts with Attorney George H. Smith, newly appointed commissioner of insolvents of Greene County, April 7, affirming their financial state; were declared insolvent, and subsequently discharged from the jail by Sheriff Ohmer Tate, without bond, pending a final hearing before Judge Wright.

The petitions ask that Judge Wright confirm the temporary order of Commissioner Smith and that he make the orders of release permanent.

The petitions are based on the recent state supreme court ruling that convicted liquor law volators, sentenced to jail for non-payment of fines and costs, cannot legally be confined more than sixty days, providing they are insolvent.

Agnew White, 26, colored, 616 E. Second St., was committed to jail, December 27, 1926, by Mayor John W. Prugh in default of a fine of $250 and costs.

Fred Harris, 24, colored, 934 Brewster St., Detroit, Mich., was committed to jail October 10, 1925 by Mayor Prugh for non-payment of a fine of $1,500 and costs.

Bennie Lewis, 43, colored, 623 E. Church St., was sentenced to jail November 20, 1926 by the mayor for failure to pay a fine of $500 and costs.

Earl Cline, 21, 103 Bellbrook Ave., was received at the jail for defaulting in paying two fines of $1,000 and costs each, assessed by Mayor Prugh.

SPECIAL ARBOR DAY PROGRAM WILL TAKE PLACE AT CITY PARK

In anticipation of the ceremonies to be held Arbor Day, Friday, at Shawnee Park, Mrs. Charles A. Kelble, president of the Xenia Garden Club, is urging that all people planning to place "memory trees" in the park, have their trees planted by that date.

Schools, lodges and other organizations of the city, have planned special ceremonies for Friday. The "memory trees" are expected to play an important part in the day's program. Fourteen trees have already been placed.

The Garden Club's membership campaign is showing results with 350 members signed. The club has a goal of 1,000 for the year and members are working hard to reach that number.

Mrs. Kelble is urging that anyone interested in the work of the club, enter the contest being conducted by the organization, in line with the beautification program. A prize of $2 will be given any one giving the best suggestion for city beautification and $1 will be given for the second best suggestion. Five dollars will be given by the club at the end of the season to the person accomplishing the most work in the line of beautification in the city.

BEGINS SENTENCE AT REFORMATORY

Floyd Johnson, re-sentenced to an indeterminate period of confinement in Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, O., recently by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy on a charge of being a parole violator, was taken to that institution Monday by Kenneth C. Barr, county road patrolman, to begin his sentence.

Johnson was found guilty by a jury in Common Pleas Court of an indictment charging assault on Herman Hazelbaker, but Judge Gowdy sustained a motion by defense counsel to set aside the verdict on the ground Mayor John W. Prugh, instead of binding him over for grand jury action, should have exercised original jurisdiction in the case.

However, Judge Gowdy revoked Johnson's parole from a prior conviction on a larceny charge and re-sentenced him to the state reformatory.

AUTOS DAMAGED IN CORNER COLLISION

Patrolman Fred Jones investigated an automobile collision at Third and Whiteman Sts. at 8:15 o'clock Monday morning in which a touring car was damaged to the extent of a bent fender and running board. No one was injured.

The accident occurred when a touring car owned by Ward Grant, and occupied bly his two aughters, being driven north on Whiteman St., drove onto Third St. without the formality of stopping at the intersection, police say.

A second machine, being operated by a man named Lucas, this city, west on Third St., crashed into the side of the car. The Grant car was slightly damaged.

ROTARY-KIWANIS TO HONOR MEMORY OF DEAD PHYSICIAN

Respect to the memory of the late Dr. W. H. Finley, Xenia physician and humanitarian, will be paid at a joint meeting of Xenia Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, at the Elks' Club, Tuesday noon. Dr. Finley was a Rotarian but the two civic organizations are joining to honor the memory and works of the late physician.

Short talks will be given by both Rotarians and Kiwanians. "Dr. Finley as a Rotarian," will be the subject of C. S. Frazer, president of the Rotary Club. "Dr. Finley as a Citizen," will be the topic of Judge R. L. Gowdy and "Dr. Finley as a Physician," will be the subject taken by a Xenia fellow-physician. "Dr. Finley as a Christian" will be discussed by Karl R. Babb, president of the Kiwanis Club.

Dr. B. R. McClellan is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the meeting. Appropriate music will augment the program of the meeting.

SECOND OFFENSE OF LIQUOR VIOLATION BRINGS LARGE FINE

Oliver Warwick, colored, this city, was fined $300 and costs by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Saturday upon a conviction for the second offense of unlawful possession of liquor.

Warwick paid $100 of the fine and upon his application, was given the privilege of furnishing $400 bond guaranteeing payment of the balance of $200 due, within six months time.

He was convicted of the third offense of illegal possession of liquor in Common Pleas Court July 6, 1925 and sentenced to serve from one to five years in Ohio State Penitentiary and to pay a fine of $500.

The Appellate Court reversed the lower court's judgment in sentencing him for a third violation of the offense, but affirmed the conviction for second offense, as charged in the indictment when he was convicted of the third offense.

The case was remanded to Common Pleas Court for re-sentence on the second offense, the higher court holding the trial court erred in overruling the plea in abatement.

CENTRAL STUDENTS TAKE THIRD PLACE IN "STENO" TESTS

Participating with eight other schools in the annual typing and shorthand contests held Saturday morning at Roosevelt High School in Dayton, representatives of Central High School succeeded in placing third to Stivers and Roosevelt in the sectional shorthand events.

Stivers scored 488.2 points, Roosevelt 295.4 and Xenia, 98.8.

Greenville, Lebanon, Miamisburg, Roosevelt, Stivers, Xenia, Emerson, Hamilton and Trotwood schools had entrants in the events.

Novice, amateur and professional events were held in the shorthand contests. In the amateur class Gladys Beal, Xenia, was the only Xenia entrant to score, making 98.8 points to place third to Mary Fairchild, Stivers and Ethel Blim, Roosevelt. The winner had 99.3 points.

Three winners in each event are eligible to enter the state meet May 7 at Bowling Green.

LEAVES FOR GOTHAM

WASHINGTON, Apr. 25.—President Machado, of Cuba, left here this morning for New York. He will spend ten days in New York and then go to Chicago for a short visit.

FIRE DAMAGES ROOF

Sparks from a chimney flue setting fire to a shingle roof resulted in about $30 damage to the residence of Charles Edwards, 119 Cincinnati Ave., Monday morning at 11:55 o'clock. Firemen extinguished the blaze with a thirty-five gallon chemical. A small hole was burned in the roof.

HELPS A PAINFUL ACHING BACK

Lumbago and a stiff, aching back suggest at once the need of a good diuretic to stimulate kidney secretions and rid the system of troublesome poisons that cause the distressing aches. Mrs. Black of Petersburg, Va., says: "Before I took Foley Pills diuretic, I could not stoop over nor raise up without great pain. Now since taking them I have none." Ask for Foley Pills diuretic. A prompt improvement will amply repay you. Satisfaction guarantee. —Adv.

BIBLE THOUGHT

A GREAT CONTRAST:—For evil doers shall be cut off: but those that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the earth. Psalm 37:9.

CALL ON U. S. FIRST

Senator Edge of New Jersey came back from Central America with some timely remarks for those who make it a practice to assert that our Government, in foreign affairs, is always wrong. Of course, he says in effect, there will be criticism of any action the United States takes in Central America, and that is because the United States is the nation which acts, the one which is always appealed to by Central American nations in difficulties.

Indulgence in the practice of taking exception to every act or policy of the State Department, Senator Edge believes, is the chief factor in prolonging the reign of revolution and anarchy in Nicaragua and other Central American countries. Those who assail the acts of this country when it answers the appeals of small republics, furnish fuel to the fire of the minorities in those republics. In discussing our policy, Senator Edge speaks of the prevailing note heard by him:

"It was presented to me by every man with whom I talked. It was, in effect, that while there would undoubtedly be criticism whenever the United States assumed a position in connection with any revolutionary movement in Central America, the fact remained that, when any trouble threatened or actually existed, the United States always had been and always would be the first country to which either side or both sides in the controversy appealed for co-operation or recognition."

Opposition sides in Central American difficulties seize upon utterances of critics in America to talk of "imperialistic designs" of this country. It has become a stock argument in which no responsible Central American puts any faith. The United States is called upon repeatedly to serve in the cause of humanity and peace, to serve in thankless tasks, and the only worrying over so-called "imperialistic designs" is done by those who for political reasons must ever be "again" the Government.

PROFIT IN BEAUTY

A Chicago real estate firm has just converted a bare meadow near that city into a "forest," having planted 900 elm trees which averaged it is said, eight inches in diameter and thirty feet in height. Around the roots of each trans-planted tree there was nearly 1,000 pounds of earth.

This transplanting must have been costly, but it bespeaks on the part of the real estate firm, if not a love of beauty, at least a keen realization of the money-value of beauty expressed in terms of trees.

Too prevalent in some other communities is the ruthless habit of chopping down trees just when they are most beautiful—no doubt in the erroneous belief that trees and hick towns go together.

A contemporary describes betting as a means of getting something for nothing. Experience teaches us that it is usually a method of getting nothing for something.—Punch.

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, April 25.—She is a sweet-faced white-haired, motherly-looking woman, well dressed and benign. You see her any bright afternoon, dallying on the sunny side of the Avenue in the crowded environs of the Boob Bazaars. Once in a while she pauses with a smile to address some well-tailored passerby:

"Have you any frocks, or furs at home, that you would like to dispose of, M'lady?" she says. "I pay the highest price in the city for second-hand wear!"

A New Yorker and a lad from "Lunnon" engaged recently in a spirited, albeit good-natured argument with respect to the outstanding excellencies of British and American motor cars.

The Boy from Thamestown drives an extremely expensive and high-powered car, while admitting the comparative flexibility of Yankee motors on high gear, none the less was inclined to be "sniffy" at gear boxes as made by the Eminent Tinsmith of Detroit.

"All that you say may be true," replied the New Yorker; "but what can you do with your fluffy broad-A'd gear box that I can't do with mine?"

"I can play 'God Save the King' on it," was the somewhat unexpected reply.

The American laughed, but the other was serious.

"All right," he said, "listen."

He took the foot off the clutch and set the spark so that his engine was running at a fair rate of speed and changed his gears ever so lightly, so that they just scraped together and no more. The car's equipment of four forward and one reverse speeds gave him a range of five notes; and with those limitations he faithfully produced the royal anthem.

The New Yorker is now practicing the "Star Spangled Banner" as a counter attraction. He said to a friend the other day:

"I wish I had a Ford to practice on. They're inherently musical."

New York hotel managers have a way all their own. Take the case of Dave Belasco, who poses in his clerical collar with two fingers on his cheek in theatrical publications and cigaret ads.

David lived for twenty years with his wife in a hotel on upper Broadway. Last October Mrs. Belasco died and David sought other quarters. Before leaving the caravansarié he says he wrote to the management as follows:

"The thought never occurred to me that I should be leaving the Marie Antoinette, but, then, the thought had never occurred to me that death would interrupt the union between me and Mrs. Belasco; and since that has taken place I have suffered agony whenever I have entered our rooms."

The management sad they were sorry, of course, and all that sort of thing, but that they had never received any such letter and if Dave had written it he must have forgotten to drop in in the box. So they entered suit for $1,600.

David has requested a trial by jury and all he has to do is to get one widower in the box and he'll be sittin' purty.

Average Man's Day In Chicago, So it Seems

KELLYGRAMS by FRED C. KELLY

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

Hotel men would let guests have more for their money if it weren't that most guests are over-anxious to obtain something for nothing.

In other words, the average person's zeal to get something for nothing is just what prevents him from getting it.

One of the New York hotel managers thought it would be a good advertising scheme to press his guests' clothes free of charge. Four men had always been able to take care of all pressing and mending for guests in the past, and while this had been done at a profit, the hotel was magnanimously willing to do it for nothing without raising the price of rooms.

But by the end of the first month the plan was hopelessly a failure. Instead of getting along with four men to do pressing, the hotel now required a force of twenty, and demands on the free service were constantly increasing. Slovenly guests who were in the habit of having their clothes pressed once a month, now demanded such service daily. They even must have ransacked the old family wardrobe for last year's clothes to bring along in an extra suitcase, for free rejuvenation. In desperation, the hotel had to start charging again and guests once more became less fastidious, but normal.

I asked the manager of a famous hotel why he doesn't do guests' laundry free and add the cost to the room charge. But he says that he couldn't hope to get enough more for a room to cover the expense of such free service.

"If guests would only play fair," he said, "and send us no more laundry than they do when they pay for it, we could wash it for nothing. But the minute we remove the charge everybody wants to get his money's worth and expects to have all his clothes washed at least once a day."

In other words, if people didn't try so hard to get something for nothing, they might succeed.

We could get more if we demanded less.

How to Achieve Beauty

LEARN TO CULTIVATE EYE BEAUTY

Last week I took the subject of hair for my articles as I decided at the beginning of the spring season that it would be interesting to take the body from the crown of the head to the sole of the feet and devote one week's beauty articles to each of the essential parts of the face and figure. And with the hair disposed of in last week's series of beauty talks, I will devote this week to the care of the eyes, eyebrows, eye area and in fact the total subject of eyes. Next week I will talk about the skin and so on until we have considered every part of one's beauty.

For many of you who are taking these articles seriously, it may be well to start clipping them so that you will have complete information on the care of your beauty from head to foot by the time I have finished this group of daily articles. Today, I am going to touch on the cultivation of a favorable expression of the eye. This is a big subject and though I can by no means do it justice in the short space I can devote to it today, nevertheless I can give you a few suggestions that may furnish food for thought.

The eye is the greatest revealer of character that there is, for the expression of the eye unerringly reflects your prevailing mode of thought and habit of living. Prove this for yourself by noticing the prevailing characteristics of people you meet and see if these are not also reflected in the expression of their eyes.

You will find many different types of eyes that correspond with various types of temper. For instance, there is the soft soulful eye that goes with the sweet and loving disposition. There is the shrewd and crafty eye that goes with the calculating disposition; the hard cold eye that goes with the temperament where the head rules the heart. Then again there are the mirthful eyes that go with the happy disposition of people who possess a good sense of humor and who appreciate a good time. Also there is the philosophical eye that goes with the temperament of the deep thinker, and so on. Today I will have to leave you with the thought that your eyes are going to reveal your inner-most thoughts and emotions to the world—do what you may to cover them.

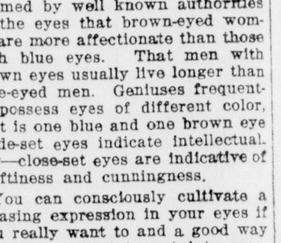

So if you do not want your eyes to reflect the bad side of you to the world, set about eradicating any bad side for your eyes will surely broadcast to the world the character of the thoughts you think and the kind of a life you live.

The color of one's eyes also reflects to a considerable degree one's character and health. It is claimed by well known authorities on the eyes that brown-eyed women are more affectionate than those with blue eyes. That men with brown eyes usually live longer than blue-eyed men. Geniuses frequently possess eyes of different color, that is one blue and one brown eye Wide-set eyes indicate intellectuality—close-set eyes are indicative of craftiness and cunningness.

You can consciously cultivate a pleasing expression in your eyes if you really want to and a good way to begin is first to put into practice a constructive thought habit and, secondly, to go before your mirror and try to reproduce what is known as the "open" countenance which is the reflection of right thinking, soulful qualities. For the open countenance you must open the eyes wide, let the muscles of your face relax. In other words everything in your facial expression is expanded. There must be no tension anywhere, no rigidity of the eye, no setting of the jaw. And the whole body should respond to this relaxation of the face.

The eye might be called the lever which floods the countenance with emotion. Learn to control it, so that, like the actress, you may express through it whatever you will. It is a well known psychological law that consistent attention given to the expression of a feeling in time makes that an inherent part of the personality. And what could be finer or better than cultivating the habit of expressing fine, big beautiful thoughts and emotions What more productive of attracting to yourself love, friendship and admiration?

Many Minds SIGNIFICANT SAYINGS OF THE DAY

"Democratic government stands challenged throughout the world because of its inefficiency. Thomas Jefferson is even more important in 1927 than he was in 1787. His standard is the standing to which the wise and the just may repair. He said in his first inaugural, 'We are all idealists, we are Republicans.' Those are his own words. We are all Federalists, we are all Republicans, but only usefully so on condition that we are all Jeffersonians."—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

Keeping HEALTHY by Dr. A. F. Currier

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

It is a pleasure to offer the following article on this subject by Dr. Leroy W. Hubbard, orthopedic surgeon to the health department of the state of New York, whose vast experience in the treatment of infantile paralysis gives authority to every word he publishes in relation to it.

Infantile paralysis is an acute, infectious disease which is caused by a specific germ. It may occur in isolated cases or may become epidemic in any community, children under the age of ten years are most susceptible, but no age is exempt.

In the majority of cases the acute illness is followed by paralysis or weakness of one or more muscles, but there are many who are not paralyzed. Therefore, "infantile paralysis" is not an accurate term, as it is not confined to children, and very many who have it are not paralyzed.

The term used by the doctors is polio-myelitis or polio.

It is probable that the communication of the disease from one person to another is due largely to the non-paralytic cases which are not recognized and in which no precautions are taken, but it is also due to those who are disease carriers and transfer the germs as is done in diphtheria.

The germs enter the body through the mouth and nose and leave it through the same channels, and by the intestines, so that if the hands are soiled by these discharges healthy persons may pick up the germs and become infected.

This hand to mouth method is probably the most common form of contagion, but uncooked food may also carry the disease.

Two years ago fifteen cases occurred in a small city through the medium of a farmer's boy of sixteen, who had the disease, but continued to milk the cows whose milk was distributed to that city. There fore, every case should be carefully isolated and all discharges from the body destroyed or disinfected.

The usual initial symptoms are fever, headache, nausea and vomiting, severe prostration and stiffness in the neck.

Paralysis usually comes within forty-eight hours, but may be deferred for several days. The germs after entering the body are carried to the brain and spinal cord and their membranes and produce inflammation. If this is severe the delicate nerve cells will cease to function and the muscles with which they are associated will be paralyzed.

Under such conditions a physician should be consulted at once. No drug has yet been discovered which has any control over the disease. The best treatment for at least five or six weeks is complete rest in bed.

The body should be kept warm with hot water bottles or electric pads and the limbs supported by light splints. Sitting up must not be permitted under any circumstances.

In some cases restoration of muscular power will be nearly complete, but should this not occur, there is always hope of a gradual, though slow, improvement under proper treatment.

This treatment consists of light massage to improve the circulation and muscle tone and of easily performed exercises.

It has recently been discovered that patients with weakened muscles can perform exercises in water with less fatigue than in any other way, and this method of treatment is now being extensively used.

In one of the southern states where there is a large spring of natural warm water an establishment for the treatment of these cases of paralysis has recently been started and the results so far have been very satisfactory.

Walking should not be allowed for several months if the attack has been at all severe.

Many cases will require braces for some time and some even, for the remainder of their lives, and these should always be applied under the direction of a competent orthopedic surgeon.

Under the present methods of treatment there should be very few helpless cripples.

SU-THOL for Headaches

Relieve headache or periodic pain without any bad after-effects. German and American Science produced Su-thol to stop all pain.

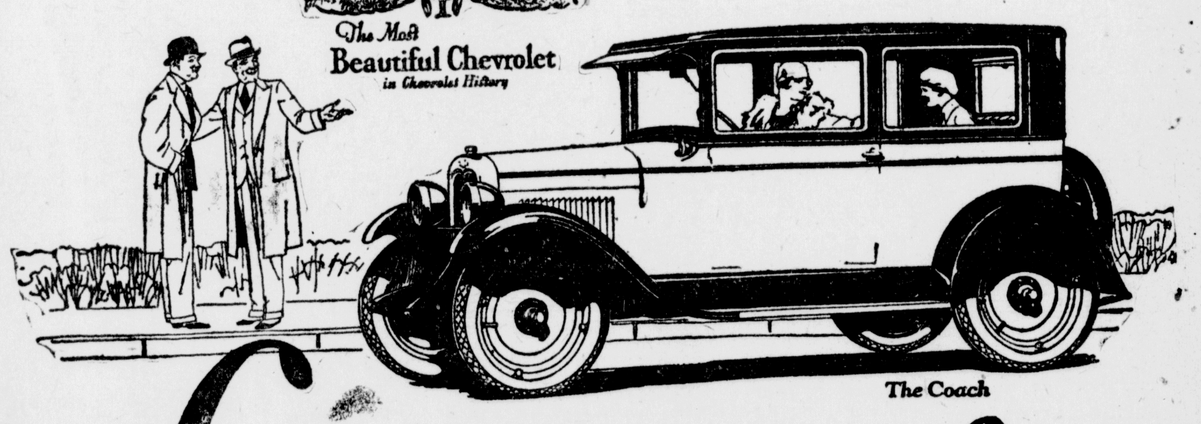

"I used to have to go to bed for 3 days every month on account of terrible headaches, until I started using Su-thol tablets. I had tried many things for relief, but got none until I tried Su-thol. It is the best medicine I ever used. Publish this for I would be glad if all women could get the benefit I have. Signed, Mrs. C. H. Rutledge, 4474 W. 157th St., Cleveland, Ohio."

The cost is trivial—the results quick and sure.

Reserves Win First Buckeye League Game Sunday

RAGGED OPPOSITION AIDS BOB HERMAN TO OSBORN VICTORY

Locals Hit In Pinches To Grab Opening Loop Tilt—Jacobs Pitches Well But Is Undermined By His Support

BOB HERMAN'S great right arm, and ragged playing by the visiting team, coupled with a devastating attack in the second, third and fourth rounds, enabled the Xenia Reserves to win their opening game in the Buckeye League from the Osborn Miami Cements 6 to 1 Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

There wasn't much to it but Bob Herman. He had a puzzling curve and mixed it up in good shape with a fast ball. As a result only seven hits were gathered by the losers and these were so restricted that no two came in the same inning.

Herman's pitching approximated the best and the Reserve twirler should have been credited with a scoreless game. After being blanked for seven rounds, Osborn scored its lone run in the eighth stanza, an unearned tally due to an error by Rader.

Harner hit a short fly which Rader dropped after a short run. Carr also hit to Rader and both runners were safe when the shortstop threw to second too late to force Harner, who was injured on the play sliding into second. Sipe ran for him. Steger advanced both runners with a sacrifice and Sipe scored on a clean single to right by Dennis. Herman then pulled out of the hole by fanning Barth and getting Nolan on an easy roller to Scott.

Jacobs pitched a creditable game for Osborn allowing but eight hits, six of which were bunched in three innings, and should have been scored on only once. The Osborn hurler, who pitched three innings for the Reserves last Sunday, was something of a puzzle but faulty support proved his undoing.

The Reserves came in contact with the plate six times. They opened the scoring early, counting twice in the second. Durnbaugh singled for a starter, counting twice in the second. Durnbaugh singled for a starter. Tangeman flied out but Cyphers dropped a double in right sending Durnbaugh to third. Keifer walked, filling the bases. Durnbaugh scored and the bases were again clogged when Harner boosted Rader's easy roller. Herman's long sacrifice fly to Carr plated Cyphers but Wirtz struck out, ending the rally.

Xenia had another big inning in the third, tallying three times aided by two errors at the outset. Weller, the first batter, was safe at first when Circle dropped his long fly. He stole second and took third as Black was safe at first on Steger's fumble. The Reserve captain pilfered second but Durnbaugh fouled out. Cyphers scored Weller and Black with a single over second, Tangeman getting to third when Harner, covering that bag, dropped Dennis' peg. He scored on Keifer's out at first.

The final run was scored in the fourth as a result of three clean wallops. Herman surprised with a single to left, but was forced by Wirtz. Weller fouled out to third but Black and Durnbaugh singled in succession, plating Wirtz.

Durnbaugh, as usual, was the batting hero of the game with three singles. Cyphers got two safeties, one a double. Carr led the visiting hitters with two hits. Reserves ran wild on the bases, stealing no less than five sacks.

Xenia meets Harshmanville in its second Buckeye League game next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Washington Park. Harshman did not fare so well in its opener Sunday, losing to the Dayton Police 10 to 2 with Glass on the mound for the losers. In the other league game of the day, the Beavertown Reds nosed out their old foe, Bellbrook, 8 to 7, in a contest which lasted fifteen innings. Lineup and summary:

GREENFIELD BEATS BOWERSVILLE WHEN SUPPORT IS RAGGED

Wells Pitches Ably But Errors Help K. I. O. Leaguers

Ragged playing by his teammates in the eighth inning proved the undoing of Clarence "Dick" Wells, star hurler, and the Bowersville Bayliffs were defeated in their season's opener by the Greenfield team of the K. I. O. League, 9 to 5 Sunday afternoon on the latter's diamond.

Bowersville was weak at bat when hits were needed, and this deficiency, together with several costly errors, was responsible for the defeat.

Ballengee of McDermott; Breitanback, Covington, Ky., and Rowe, Portsmouth, alternated in the box for Greenfield, while Wells pitched the entire distance for the Bayliffs.

Wells struck out thirteen men and performed the worthy feat of retiring the side single handed in the second inning, fanning three players. He whiffed one or more batters in every inning.

Greenfield held a four-run lead in the first five innings, scoring twice in the first and third. Bowersville got two in the sixth, the home team one in the seventh, and the visitors tied the score with a three-run rally in the first half of the eighth.

Greenfield then won the game in its half of the inning by counting four times. The team should have been retired in order but three errors and two hits combined to produce the four tallies.

Bowersville was outhit fifteen to eight. Cox, Bock and Wells each hit safely twice for the Bayliffs. Adams had a perfect day at bat for Greenfield, collecting five hits, including a triple, in as many times at bat.

Bowersville will open its season in the Triangle League against Jamestown at Jamestown Sunday afternoon, May 1. The game is called for 3 o'clock.

UNITY OF SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK PLAN

Plans to unite Sunday School work of the county into a solid organization to appeal to members and people outside of the Sunday School, were laid at the meeting of the County Sunday School Executive Board at the office of J. Harry Nagley, second vice president, Xenia, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A program of work was outlined, designed to touch every Sunday School in the county. Three meetings were arranged, the first at Yellow Springs May 15, when Sunday School workers from that village, Fairfield, Osborn, Byron, Yellow Springs and Clifton, will meet. The second meeting is May 29, at Jamestown, when Cedarville, Ross Twp., and Jasper workers will lay plans. The last meeting will be for all Sunday School workers of the county at Xenia, June 1. Each group will have an afternoon institute to inspire interest in Sunday School work.

OSTEOPATH WILL OPEN OFFICE HERE

Dr. A. B. May, osteopath, who has been associated with Dr. J. A. Yoder, in the Steele Building, is opening his own offices for the practice of osteopathy in the Allen Bldg., Suite Five, he announced Monday.

Dr. May will open his new offices Tuesday morning, April 26. He has been associated with Dr. Yoder the past two years and a half. Dr. May came to Xenia from the Des Moines, Ia., Still College of Osteopathy and had some experience in his work while in Des Moines.

TRIANGLE BASEBALL LEAGUE FORMED; THREE GREENE COUNTY TEAMS LISTED

Organization of the Triangle Baseball League, composed of six Miami Valley teams, has been effected for the coming season.

Teams entered in the league include the Bowersville Bayliffs, Spring Valley, Modern Woodmen, of Dayton, Jamestown, Wilmington and Waynesville. The first three clubs are designated as road teams and the latter three will stage all their games on the home diamonds.

The board of directors is composed of the managers of the six clubs.

The league will have its formal opening games Sunday afternoon, May 1.

Spring Valley and Jamestown opened their league season a week earlier than anticipated, Spring Valley winning 13 to 1 at Jamestown Sunday afternoon. Lucas pitched for the losers but was handicapped by ragged fielding behind him.

BEAVERTOWN REDS AND DAYTON POLICE WIN LEAGUE GAMES

Xenia Reserves, Beavertown Reds and the Dayton Police won their opening games in the six-team Buckeye League Sunday afternoon.

Reserves won impressively from the Osborn Miami Cements by a score of 6 to 1.

Leeper yielded but five hits and struck out eleven men, as the Dayton Police defeated Harshmanville 10 to 2 at Harshmanville. Glass, Alpha, was on the hill for Harshman, and was touched for twelve hits, bunched in the first, second and sixth innings.

Beaver won a thrilling fifteen-inning game from Bellbrook at Beavertown by a score of 8 to 7. Bellbrook jumped into a four-run lead but Beaver managed to tie the score at 5 to 5 in the ninth.

In the tenth both teams tallied twice but in the fifteenth stanza, Brown's long double to center, his second of the game, scored Hartman with what proved to be the winning run. Thirty-three hits were made by both teams in the slugfest, nineteen of which were obtained by the winners.

STUDENTS TO OFFER OPERA "PINAFORE"

The comic opera, "Pinafore," a Gilbert and Sullivan production, will be presented Thursday and Friday nights, April 28 and 29 by students and faculty of Antioch College at the Yellow Springs Opera House.

Rehearsals have been proceeding satisfactorily for several weeks under the direction of Mrs. Charles W. Putnam. The two performances are for the benefit of the Social Service League.

The play will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock both evenings. Admission of 35 and 50 cents will be charged.

Xenians were given impressions of the opera to be presented at the time of the annual Kiwanis Club show here several weeks ago.

BELLBROOK PUPILS WILL GIVE RECITAL

Bellbrook grade school and high school pupils, who have been studying instrumental music under Miss Maxine Grindle during the past school year, will entertain their parents and friends with a recital at the Bellbrook High School auditorium Tuesday evening, April 26 at 8 p. m.

Following pupils will participate in the recital: Piano numbers—Marie Berryhill, Evelyn Peterson, Helen Tate, Irma Zurowise, Virginia Lackey, Cynthia Ann White, Mary Pierce and Charles Bahns. Violinists—Geneva Bond, Wanda Lee Peterson, Thomas Sheets and Louise Smith. Celloist—Robert Tate. Ukelele—Paul Glotfelter and Woodrow Miller.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS GUESTS OF SOCIETY

Greene County Commissioners will be guests of the Greene County Medical Society at the meeting of the Five-County Medical Group at Lebanon, O., Tuesday, at Memorial Hall.

Commissioners of the five counties have been invited to attend the meeting, when an address on rabies will be given. The joint meeting is expected to result in stringent action against the spread of rabies in this part of the state.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. J. C. ALLISON

Mrs. J. C. Allison, 70, formerly of Xenia, died at her home in Topeka, Kan., Friday morning at 7 o'clock, according to word received by Xenia relatives. Mrs. Allison's death occurred suddenly, from heart trouble.

Mr. Allison, who was associated in the firm of Allison and Townsley in Xenia a number of years, died in Topeka eighteen months ago. His death was also due to heart trouble. Funeral services for Mrs. Allison were held in Topeka, Monday.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Louise McClure, wife of Common Pleas Judge McClure of Topeka, and two grandsons. Mrs. Allison, who has resided in Topeka about twenty years, has several Xenia relatives and a large host of friends who will regret to learn of her death.

TONIGHT AND TUESDAY
"ROSE OF THE TENEMENTS"
With
Shirley Mason, Johnny Harron

A beautiful girl born in the tawdry, dirty poverty of the tenements, longing, striving, fighting for the better things out of her reach! Throbbing with the bitter-sweet romance of New York's great East Side—pungent with memories of the stirring days before America entered the war.

After the "Flu" is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such case, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

"YES, I SOLD IT," HE REPLIED; "I USED AN AD IN CLASSIFIED."

The Theatre

Ever so many years ago when vaudeville was known as "Variety," all New Yorkers on amusement bent, wended their way to the Music Hall of Tony Pastor in Fourteenth St., next door to Tammany Hall. It was at Tony Pastor's that Lillian Russell became famous.

Here also Maggie Cline introduced her famous song, "Throw Him Down McCloskey." John W. Kelly, the rolling mill man, the Russell Brothers, Lizzie Raymond, Harry Kernell, Lottie Gilsen, Lew Dockstader and hundreds of other stars of yesteryear entertained. WABC will present "A Night at Tony Pastor's" as a feature of it's program Monday night at 9 o'clock. Do not be surprised if you should hear "She is Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage," "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me," "Two Little Girls in Blue," "The Picture That Is Turned Towards the Wall," "Baggage Coach Ahead," "The Fatal Wedding," "Down Went McGinty," "Her Golden Hair Was Hanging Down Her Back," as well as "After the Ball," and many other favorites of old Tony Pastor days.

Being in three successive dramatic failures can kill a star, a theatrical man told me yesterday, although the star may be a better actress and better looking than at any time in her career, a well known New York writer says.

And any actor or actress, no matter how important his or her roll is, will have a hard time finding a job if she has been in five successive failures. The reason is that manager and producers believe in hoodoos.

They have the superstition that an actor or an actress who has played in failures are hoodooed and that they hoodoo the show by their presence, dooming it to an early death.

A star who was famous until this season is in permanent eclipse, although he does not know it yet. How should he? He is as good as he ever was. But he has been in three successive dramatic failures this year. They were weak shows and his acting had nothing to do with their demise.

But producers and managers have got the idea that he is a hoodoo and that he hoodooed the shows he was in this season. I am told that not a manager will give him a stellar role next year. He has a contract which runs for some time yet and he will draw a salary until the contract is up, but his career as a star is ended.

There is a musical comedy in town that is a hit. For several weeks it was selling out two weeks in advance. There was a slump in the box office receipts and investigation proved that one of the chorus girls had been in four failures in succession. The producer and the whole cast believe the girl is a hoodoo and they are on pins and needles over her presence in the show.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The WAY I FEEL ABOUT IT

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Prohibition is not succeeding as well as was expected among those who never expected it to succeed as well as was expected.

EPH SNOW

"Now that he is free again maybe it would be better for the rest of us if Doc Cook would discover the North Pole again," suggests Eph Snow.

THERE ARE WORMS AND WORMS

Just because she is married to a book worm is no sign a woman isn't fond of the products of the silk worm.

BUT HE HAS TO BE "IN CONFERENCE"

A wife is a person who can't figure how a man could have "a hard day at the office" when all he has to do there is to count his money and dictate letters to a good-looking stenographer.

REFLECTING ON CHINA

Some of the foreigners who have been wondering what they could get out of China are now wondering how they can get out of China.

Those Chinese coolies won't keep cool. A lot of them are losing their heads.

The Chinese invented fireworks and now the Powers may have to put the fireworks out.

Probably the whole trouble is that the Chinese government structure is full of Chinks.

RECALL BUT NO ENCORE

How do you account for the fact that the very people who say the big time Volstead act is a flop, are trying to recall it?

IN OUR TOWN

Bert Needless, our former prosecuting attorney, thinks we could stamp out John Barleycorn if when we put our foot on him we'd keep our hand out of his pockets.

WHO REMEMBERS

When the best sign of spring was durg store windows filled with bottles of "blood purifier?"

A SHORT STORY

When the judge told her she could not have alimony you ought to have seen Mazie's face fall," said the first chorine.

"And to think," responded the second, "she had just had it lifted."

HALF MINUTE ESSAY

When governments break down, their people break up.

Dictation nearly always follows abdication.

Thus when the King of Italy made himself scarce, Mussolini made himself numerous.

Better be bled white by an inefficient government than bled red by a vicious one.

There is Russia that rebelled against an absolute monarchy and what she got in its place was an absolute shame.

THE POINT OF VIEW

When President Coolidge
Goes West, next summer,
It will not be
To "grow up with the country."
But to make up with the country-men.

MINOR MUSINGS

Somehow, the things that are "good for you" never are good for anything else.

GETTING BACK TO NATURE

PLEASURABLE, PROFITABLE GARDENING AT HOME

GARDEN NOVELTIES

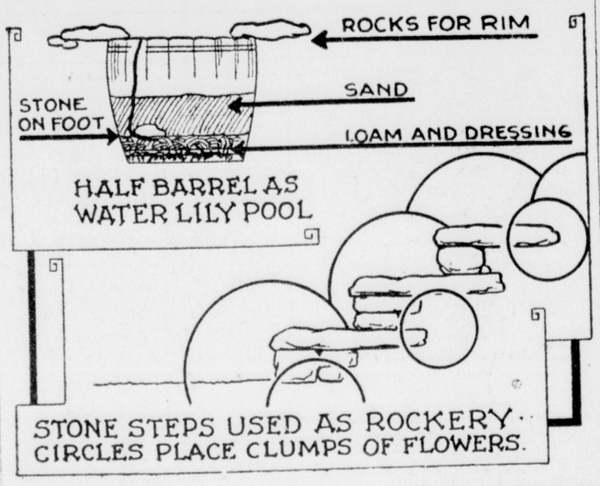

By JOHN A. CRAWFORD
Specialist in Horticulture
SIXTEENTH ARTICLE

Bird-baths, gold-fish pools, rockeries, stone steps, and stepping stones often add the artist's finishing touch to a garden. The smallest backyard paradise can have one of these, perhaps more.

Stepping stones can replace the trodden strip of grass from the cellar door to the hose tap in the back of the house. Be sure to lay the stones flush with the sod and supported somewhat on their undersides by other rocks to prevent heaving or undue settling. If halt of your yard is a twenty-degree slope or steeper a pair of stone stairs at the foot of it, roughly sunk into the hillside, gives a layout of a theater appearance, the steps being the stage. In building such steps use plenty of stones, or bricks if you desire, or slabs, and anchor the flat part well underneath the hill above it. Old discarded marble mantlepieces, rough pudding stones found around Cleveland, or the lime-stone chunks in Indiana, or the split field rock to be found in New York or Pennsylvania all can be used for building these charming rostrums.

MAKE YOUR OWN POOL

Gold-fish pools and water-lily ponds can be had by anybody. The small backyard can best afford half a barrel type, sunk in the ground. Cover the bottom with three inches of good loam. Add to that an inch or two of well-rotted manure and compost of leaves. On top of that put two inches of white sand. The sand serves two purposes; first it gives a clear bottom to gaze down into, for lizards to play on and fish to swim over. Second, it is the proper bedding for water lily roots. They should not be allowed to touch even the most thoroughly decomposed manures. Anchor water-lily roots with a stone so that they won't float to the surface or be washed out of the sand when you pour a pailful of water into the tub. Waterlily roots can be bought this spring to blossom in June.

In larger places, or in formal gardens, concrete or stone pools can be built. An amateur can make one. They must have patience enough to plan it in advance, to make wooden or sheet-metal forms; to dig a hole much larger than the bowl of the pool will require, and be willing to buy enough cement to make a good concrete mixture. Consult your neighborhood mason for the proper cement mixing formula for a water-tight pool. Such a pool should be at least a foot deep and the bottom should be covered with four inches of soil and leaves. Sand is not essential in a large pool. If you have a four foot by six foot pool, waterlily pads four inches to six inches across will not be too large. In a sunken barrel, water-lilies with smaller leaves, perhaps two inches in diameter to spangle the water mirror, are more in keeping with the size of your undertaking. Good taste applies in these novelties as much as in color blending in the flower beds.

NOT A GRAVEYARD

A rockery should not suggest a mausoleum. Too often they are just heaps of rocks or mounds of earth studded with rocks in the middle of an otherwise good looking lawn. Rockeries belong at one side where they won't be stumbled over. They might flank the steps mentioned previously. If the lily pool glistens at the foot of a slope, or next to the stone wall, or the foundation of a house, rocks might be piled around it to give it a suggestion of secretness. Remember that the soil in a rockery often stays cool and moist when the rest of the garden will be parched, and for that reason plants that need the early spring soil will thrive there a month later than they would in a sundried bed. The alpine flowers, brought down from the Swiss mountains, to the lowlands step by step, generation by generation, make the best and most colorful displays for such layouts.

Be sure to have your rocks set firmly before you plant around them. They need not look like a pile of cannon balls, nor the jagged and exposed edge of an upright ledge. Some should be in flat, some in upright positions. Some of the rocks can be shoebox size, some fist size. One might be a foot square, weighing a hundred pounds. Lay them together, however, in such a way that they blend in shape, slope and dimension with the ground's features before them, and with the hillside, the trees, or the house behind.

HER MAN

FOREVER MATED

by BEATRICE BURTON
author of "Love Bound"

© JOHNSON FEATURES INC. 1926

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR is married to RANDALL PHELPS, the type of man who is in love with any woman but the one who is his wife.

He has an affair with Sylvia's best friend, FAY SHIRLEY, just before her marriage to EDDIE CARTER, a fat and prosperous broker. This affair ends when Sylvia tells Ranny that she is going to have a baby, and for a time he settles down and behaves himself.

But shortly after the birth of RANNY, JR., he returns to his old habits of poker playing and promiscuous love-making, just as Sylvia's AUNT AGONY had predicted. And Sylvia has to give piano lessons to help make both ends meet. She goes on with her singing lessons, too, but Ranny won't let her sing in public because he is jealous of her voice, as so many husbands are jealous of their wives' accomplishments. Sylvia writes a popular song, "When Everything's Said," and saves the money to make a down payment on a house. The tiny flat where they live is no place to raise a baby, as she realizes.

Ranny goes joy-riding one night with a strange girl. Sylvia, returning from the home of MISS SARAH WILK with her brother, PETER WILK, sees the pair together in the car, and later Ranny admits that he "picked up" the girl. A week later they meet her at a party given by his sister, LOLLY BOYLE, and Sylvia learns that she is ELSIE LEOPOLD, a bachelor girl who owns a little gift shop. That night Ranny becomes angry when one of the men, WOODY KING, makes love to Sylvia and takes her home.

Ranny, quarrelsome and angered by Sylvia's silence, leaves the house and fails to return that night.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XLII

"WHAT did Lolly tell you? That Ranny is over at his mother's house?" asked Fay, who had turned around from the mirror to listen.

"She hung up before I had time to ask her," Sylvia answered. She was running rapidly through the pages of the phone book, looking for the number of a taxicab company. "Father Phelps is very ill, and I'm going right over."

"Don't bother to call a cab," Fay stopped her, as she took down the receiver once more. "I'll run you over to the Phelps' in a minute. Just wait until I get this eyebrow on straight." She went on drawing a fine arch over her eye, with a soft brown pencil.

Fay's brows and lashes were colorless. It took her half an hour every morning to darken them.

Sylvia watched her now, as she picked up a little box of sticky white cream and began to rub it over her freckles. Then she powdered over the cream, and when her complexion was dead-white, she covered her mouth with orange-red lip paste. The effect was bizarre, not to say startling.

"One of my worst nightmares is a dream that I'm on a desert island with a good-looking man and no make-up!" she said suddenly to Sylvia, with a giggle. "Can you feature anything worse?"

Then her face sobered. "The one reason why I stick to Eddie," she went on, "is because he likes me no matter how I look. He's seen me without a scrap of rouge on my face, and still he's strong for me. I'd never dare let any other man on the face of the earth see me as I really am! If I did, he'd probably start running, and never stop."

She began to whistle cheerfully, as she packed all her make-up into a silver box on the top of her dresser. Then she picked up a gold-topped atomizer from her dressing table, and sprayed herself generously with perfume. "There, now, I guess I'm ready to go out and face my fellow-woman!" she announced cheerily, and picked up a green sports hat and sweater from the window seat.

"Now, just look at you!" she exclaimed, when she and Sylvia were tucked into the flying roadster, with the baby between them on the seat. "You paint not, neither do you rouge, yet the sun in all its glory, can not glow, can not show up a single flaw on your face! How Ranny can run around with a cheap thing like this Elsie Leopold, when he has you, is a Chinese puzzle to me!"

Sylvia flushed. "Nonsense!" she said, as women do when they are flattered. "Of course, I use rouge and powder!"

But she knew that what Fay said about her being pretty was true enough. She knew that she was prettier now than she ever had been—prettier than any of the girls that Ranny had lost his heart to, since his marriage.

YOUNRanny! Her thoughts were never Jamy from him very long. They flew n now, as she wondered if he was s father's house or not.

was

He was standing between the tall white pillars of the porch, as Fay's car swung into the gravelled driveway that divided the lawn from Mother Phelps' sunken garden.

He still wore his wrinkled evening clothes, and no collar.

"For crying out of turn!" Fay laughed, "look at your Friend Husband! He looks as if he'd slept in his boiled shirt and his freckles!"

It turned out that that was exactly what he had done.

Lolly told Sylvia all about it, when Ranny had vanished up to the second floor with his son on his arm.

"Your wandering boy was out all last night, wasn't he?" Lolly began. "He came back to our house after he took you home. And he and Elsie Leopold went out for a ride, somewhere. Then, about three o'clock, he came back and said he was going to stay at our house all night. I can't imagine why he wouldn't go home to you—"

"I'll tell you why," Sylvia surprised her by saying. "He was peeved at me because he saw Woody King trying to get fresh with me last night! He said it was my fault—and you know it wasn't, Lolly, don't you? You know I never look at a man!"

Lolly brushed her wavy hair back from her forehead with an exquisite little hand. She did all her own work in the tiny bungalow, but no one would have guessed it, to look at her.

Twice a week she had her hair marcelled and her nails "done" by a woman who did Sally King's, too. She still took as much care of her small, perfumed self as she ever had done in the days before her amazing marriage to Thomas Boyle.

She looked thoughtfully at Sylvia, now, from under lashes that were heavy with black oil.

"The trouble with you is that you're buried alive, Sylvia," she said, with the air of a wise old owl. "You think that just because somebody slipped a wedding ring over your finger, you must never look at another man again, as long as you live! And you're a simp to think it! If I were you, I'd show Mr. Randall Phelps that I was just as attractive to me as he is to women! He needs a lesson."

She turned sharply, as Ranny came running down the stairs.

"Yes, you do need a lesson!" she said, facing him, "and if I were Sylvia, I'd give you one or two that you'd remember! The way you acted last night with that Elsie Leopold! And she isn't pretty, even!—"

She would have said much more, but Ranny interrupted her. "Dad's still conscious, and mother thinks he's asking for you," he said, and Lolly jumped down from the hall table, and ran up to the second floor.

"The darned kid! What's she been saying to you?" he asked Sylvia, when his sister was not only out of sight, but out of hearing, too.

Sylvia laughed a little uncomfortably. "She's been giving me a little advice," she answered, looking away from him, "but don't worry. I'm not going to take it."

After all, she reflected, Lolly's advice might do for Lolly. It might do for Fay, or for almost any other woman.

But, she knew that their system of keeping their husbands eternally jealous would never do for her. It would never work with Ranny!

The only way to hold him was to let him know every minute that she loved him, and nobody but him! To make him understand that no matter what he did, she would forgive him! To let him feel that no matter where he went, she was always waiting to take him back!

She knew that she never could do anything else, anyway. She loved him too much!

She looked up at him now, with no word of reproach for last night.

The hours of worry, when she hadn't known where he was, slipped out of her mind.

All she saw was his tired face, with puffs under the handsome eyes.

"I thought, from Lolly's telephone message, that your father was dying," she said, laying her hand on his arm, "but if he isn't, shan't we go home now? You must be awfully tired."

He nodded. "We thought at first that dad had had a stroke," he explained, "but when Dr. Buzzard got here, he said it had been just a spasm of some kind. Run up and get the kid, and we'll go home now. I could sleep for a week, I'm that all in."

Sylvia found Mother Phelps sitting alone in her room, crying. Her beautiful silver pompadour that always stood up like a bird's proud crest, was dank and flat this morning. And her eyelids were creased and swollen by her crying. She was frightened, and she broke into fresh sobs when she saw Sylvia.

"Dr. Buzzard says that all Jamie needs is a rest," she said, in a muffled tone, "but how can he go away and rest, with no one but Ranny to take hold of the business? He doesn't know anything about it—"

"But Thomas does!" Lolly's shrill, hard little voice came from the open doorway. "He knows all about it! He'd do just as well with it as father himself would."

But Mother Phelps shook her head, and sniffed. "No, I'm not going to let a stranger take over the job that belongs to Ranny!" she declared. "It Jamie goes away, we'll just have to put Ranny in his place, and trust to luck! I won't have Thomas Boyle put over my own son!"

In vain Lolly, who had a sharp little brain and knew how to look out after herself, argued that Thomas Boyle should be put in charge of the business.

Mother Phelps won her point. At the end of a week, when she took Father Phelps to Virginia Hot Springs for a long rest, Ranny became the temporary head of "Jamison Phelps and Son." And Thomas remained what he was—a rattling good salesman for the company.

Ranny enjoyed his new position of power, to the utmost.

He bought himself two new tailor-made suits, and some dark ties in place of the gayly striped ones that he usually wore.

He never got up in the morning, now, until nine o'clock.

This arrangement put Sylvia's work back a whole hour. She had to stop now, between music lessons to get Ranny his breakfast, or help him hunt for a collar button that had rolled under the dresser. But it was lovely to have him around the house for an extra hour in the morning, anyway.

It filled her with a sense of comfort just to pass the door of his bedroom, and look in to see him filling his pipe, or looking over the morning paper.

He rarely came home to dinner at night, now. He said that he was very, very busy. But once or twice when Sylvia called his office after six o'clock, he was not there.

One night, shortly before seven o'clock, he telephoned her.

"How would you like to come downtown for dinner?" he asked her.

She couldn't keep her pleasure out of her voice when she answered him. "Oh, I'd love to!" she cried. "Where shall I meet you—and how soon?"

"Can you make it in half an hour, at the Tangerine Garden?" he asked. She said she would.

She did more things in the next fifteen minutes than she would have believed possible. She started the water in the tub, and bundled up Junior, and ran down to ask Mrs. Pigeon, the janitress, if she could stay with him for a couple of hours.

While she dressed and brushed her hair, she danced in and out of Junior's tiny cubby-hole of a room, to see that Mrs. Pigeon was putting him to bed properly.

She never left Junior these days, without an ache in her heart, somehow.

He seemed so small and so pale, that the very sight of him pulled at her heart-strings.

"Oh, I've got to buy a house, or rent one, or something!" she thought, despairingly, as the taxicab jolted its way downtown with her. "That baby's just got to have a backyard where he can play!"

Dr. Buzzard had told her so that very morning. Some babies, he said, were so husky that they got along despite a lack of fresh air and sunshine. But Junior wasn't that kind of a baby. He had never been very strong.

"If we only had even a front porch—" Sylvia thought, as the cab drew up at the brilliantly-lighted entrance of the Tangerine Garden.

It wasn't a garden at all, of course, but a great restaurant. It derived its name from the dark green foliage that hung from its ceiling. Among the leaves twinkled little orange lights that looked like tangerines, and cast a warm glow over the room.

Sylvia looked all around the crowded room for Ranny, but couldn't see him.

Then she felt a hand laid ever so lightly on her arm, and turned to look up into Petter Wilk's ugly, kindly face.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

After a long wait at the Tangerine Garden Ranny meets Sylvia. He has a girl with him. Why did Ranny ask Sylvia to come down town. You'll learn the solution in the next chapter.

MICHAEL O'CONNELL CALLED BY DEATH

Michael O'Connell, 70, retired farmer, passed away at his home off the Federal Pike, four miles southeast of Cedarville, Saturday at midnight. Mr. O'Connell had been ill for the past seven years and his death was caused by a complication of diseases.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Sarah Jane Sowers O'Connell and one son, Daniel O'Connell, at home. Mr. O'Connell was the last member of his immediate family.

He was a member of St. Augustine's Catholic Church, Jamestown, where funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, with interment in Jamestown Cemetery.

JOHN L. SPAHR IS SUMMONED MONDAY

John L. Spahr, 82, pioneer resident of Greene County, died at the home of his son, Milton Spahr, two miles east of Xenia, Monday morning at 4 o'clock. Death was caused by paralysis. Mr. Spahr had been ill twelve and one-half weeks.

He is survived by two sons and one daughter, Milton Spahr, with whom he made his home; Osmund Spahr, near Lebanon and Mrs. Florence Fields, near Jamestown. Two brothers, Moses Spahr, west of Xenia and Philip Spahr, Dayton, also survive.

Mr. Spahr was born in Greene County and spent practically all his life in this county. He was a member of the New Jasper M. E. Church.

Funeral services will be held at the Milton Spahr home, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in Woodland Cemetery, Xenia.

JAMES WATKINS IS SUMMONED BY DEATH

James Watkins, 71, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Maude Peterson, Wilmington Pike, at 10 o'clock Sunday night, following a month's illness. Death was attributed to heart trouble.

Mr. Watkins lived in the Union neighborhood the greater part of his life but for the past six years had lived in Xenia. A week ago he was taken to the home of his daughter. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Watkins died three years ago. Surviving are the following children: William, near Beavertown; Orville, Dayton, O.; Miss Nellie, Xenia; Mrs. Paul Beam, Reesville; Mrs. E. H. Clevenger, Xenia; Mrs. J. C. Smith, Kelso, Wash.; Charles, of Zoar; Ralph, near Spring Valley; George, Indianapolis, Ind.; Elton, Columbus; Clarence, Belmont, and Mrs. Maude Peterson. One brother, Alexander, Wilmington Pike, also survives.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

"SICK-HEADACHES ?"

Torturing, maddening! Most always trace them to a lazy liver, constipation and a sour-sick stomach. Poison of fermented foods retained, instead of passing, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissues, it causes congestion and that acute, sickening pain.

Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills quickly and surely remove the cause by stimulating the liver, toning up the bowel-nerves, making the poison-ferments move on and out, thus purifying the blood and curing the headaches. The effect is almost instantaneous.

Women, because of their sensitive organism are especially prone to periodical headaches, should not suffer if a drugstore is nearby—for Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills have helped millions during the past 25 years. Non-secret formula, small, sweet, prompt and "Better Than Castor Oil." Two sizes 15c—30c.

The Advantages of this Lorain Equipped QUICK MEAL

Gas Range are not mere talking points to make sales,—they actually lighten your kitchen work and speed up cooking. Read these details:

The Neat-top is black enameled and cannot rust. Three of the lids over the burners are open and thereby the objections of a totally closed top are overcome.

The top burners which are shown here with the side of the stove cut away produce a more economical, efficient, and hotter flame. They have a non-rusting, non-clogging, aluminum burner head. They are interchangeable and will burn with either a very small flame or a very large flame by the mere turning of the valve handle.

A new broiler burner with fireclay radiant sections enables you to toast bread and broil meats, fish, and foul quickly, and deliciously, in a shorter time than by any other method. Radiant heat penetrates quicker and more thoroughly and prevents the loss of fine flavors and meat juices.

Other Points of Excellence are:

Lorain Oven Heat Regulator. With the Lorain you need never worry about "unlucky baking days," and you can cook an entire meal without watching, and canning is made so much easier.

No Visible Hinges and No Door Catches.

Boltless Front.

Concealed Manifold.

Porcelain Enameled Throughout. As easily cleaned as a platter.

MISSISSIPPI FLOOD TOLL NOW 150

GREENE COUNTY FLOOD RELIEF QUOTA FIXED AT $1,575

RED CROSS CHAPTER LAUNCHES EFFORTS TO COLLECT AMOUNT

Appeal Broadcast In Churches—Donations Being Received

PROCLAMATION

Office of the Mayor,
City of Xenia, Ohio.

To the people of Greene County, Greetings—

The President of the United States has called on the people of this county to raise $1500.00 quickly to help the people who are suffering from the greatest flood in the history of this country. Let all the clubs, lodges, civic organizations, business houses and individuals of the county get behind the local chapter of the American Red Cross and do this work in a day. Haste and prompt giving means the saving of lives. Send checks or money to Vern L. Faires, Treasurer, Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, No. 9 West Main St., Xenia, Ohio. The need is urgent.

JOHN W. PRUGH,
Mayor of the City of Xenia.
Monday morning, April 25, 1927.

Greene County's quota for relief work in the devastated Mississippi Valley flood area has been fixed at $1,575, according to a telegram received Monday by W. W. Galloway, chairman Greene County Chapter, American Red Cross, from national Red Cross headquarters at Washington, D. C.

Citizens are contributing generously to the Red Cross fund being raised and it is hoped to have the full amount raised by Thursday of this week. Voluntary contributions are being sought but if the goal cannot be reached by this method, the local chapter expects to move swiftly to organize a campaign of personal solicitation.

Seventy-five notices of the nation-wide appeal for aid ware sent out over the week-end and were read during the Sunday services at all churches in the county.

In some cases collections were taken and in other instances personal subscriptions were given. Citizens are responding in a satisfactory manner, according to Chairman Galloway.

Cash contributions are being recieved in Xenia by Vern L. Faires, county treasurer, at the D. E. Anderson insurance agency, W. Main St., but no official check has been made on the money already turned in.

At the present it is considered impractical to accept donations of clothing or other miscellaneous supplies.

Red Cross officials request that all business firms, lodges, churches, clubs and individuals make out their checks and turn in contributions at once to Mr. Faires to expediate the collection.

Residents of the outlying districts are also responding splendidly to the appeal, it is announced. Township chairmen of the county chapter are hard at work obtaining subscriptions and organization of the relief work in the various townships is moving rapidly.

Clifton has turned in more than $175 and Cedarville approximately $100. Other villages have not been heard from.

The Red Cross board held a meeting at its headquarters at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon for the purpose of hearing reports of representatives over the county and to formulate further plans for the country-wide collection.

Assurances have been received by Chairman Galloway that all parts of the county will respond generously, especially in view of the urgent need of the flood sufferers.

The budget committee of the First United Presbyterian Church, Xenia, announced Monday that all monies given at the Sunday morning service next week, aside from the regular envelope offering, will be forwarded to the Red Cross for the relief work.

MELLON CONTINUES SILENCE ON POLICY REGARDING HAYNES

Admits That Thousands Want Ohioan Kept As Dry Chief

WASHINGTON, Apr. 25.—More than three thousand communications, most of them urging the permanent appointment of acting Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, have been received by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, it was stated at the treasury today.

Except for this statement the treasury made no official comment on the charge of William H. Stayton, national chairman of the association against the prohibitoin amendment, that Wayne B. Wheeler, anti-saloon league chief, is using "high power propaganda" to force Mellon to give Haynes a permanent commission at the head of the government's dry army.

A majority of the letters urging Haynes' appointment are from anti-saloon league members or officials. A considerable number of communications have been sent to Mellon opposing Haynes, officials declared.

Unofficially, the treasury was pleased with Stayton's so-called "expose" of the anti-saloon league campaign. Officials frankly admitted that the Anti-Saloon League had exerted its utmost influence to obtain Haynes' appointment and was continuing the drive to force Mellon to name him permanent commissioner.

Similar pressure is being exerted on the White House, many letters and telegrams having been sent to President Coolidge relative to Haynes, officials said.

Stayton's assertion that on four occasions superior officer of Haynes in the treasury had slated him for removal, but that Wheeler's appeal to the White House saved him has been common gossip at the treasury since General L. C. Andrews, dry chief, became assistant secretary.

Andrews removed from Haynes all his authority in the dry machine, but was unsuccessful in getting him off the government payroll.

It was generally understood that the prohibition reorganization bill was a final effort to eliminate Haynes, but again, officials said, he has been saved by the Anti-Saloon League.

A determined fight is now in progress to prevent Haynes' permanent appointment. Andrews and officials in the prohibition bureau, are said to be still hopeful that they can bring about the appointment of another candidate for the commissionership. Final action on the dry appointment is expected this week.

CYRUS M'CORMICK WEDS "STENO"

NEW YORK, April 25.—A sensation was caused in society circles today by the revelation that Cyrus H. McCormick, of Chicago, multi millionaire chairman of the board of the International Harvester Company, had secretly married his secretary, Miss Alice M. Hoit, at Dublin, N. H., last Friday. McCormick is 68; his bride is said to be about 40. The couple sailed Friday night for Europe.

On the return of the couple to this country they will reside in the McCormick mansion in Chicago.

McCormick's first wife, who was Harriet Hammond, died in 1921, after a long illness. She was prominent in many philanthoric projects.

It is understood the two sons will join their father and stepmother in Europe in a few weeks.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—The 480-mile marathon over the Redwood Highway from San Francisco to Grant's Pass, Ore., will start on the morning of June 14, the committee in charge of the long race announced today. Only Indian runners are eligible to compete, it was said. Two thousand dollars in prizes are offered.

SMACK! KERENSKY AGAIN SLAPPED, THIS TIME BY DISGRUNTLED FORMER RUSSIAN OFFICER

Ex-Premier Insulted Second Time Since Coming To America—Chicago Banquet Almost Becomes Free-For-All

CHICAGO, April 25.—The identity of the man who slapped the face of Alexander Kerensky, former premier of Russia's provisional government, during a banquet last night at the Palmer House, was revealed today as Dr. Boris Gregory Telesnitsky, prominent North Shore physician and former officer in the czar's army.

The attack on Kerensky, the honor guest at the banquet, threw the dinner-jacketed guests into a riot that for a time threatened to develop into an old-fashioned free-for-all.

As the former premier was making his way to the banquet table, a tall dark man rose from his seat and landed a resounding smack with his right palm on Kerensky's cheek.

"That's for what you did to the officers of the Russian army," said his assailant.

Several of Kerensky's aids leaped up but another stranger stood up beside the attacker and together they fought off Kerensky's friends until detectives arrived.

Dr. Telesnitsky was released on his own recognizance. His friend proved to be Lieut. Serge Busch, also a former officer in the Russian army.

"I slapped Kerensky," explained Dr. Telesnitsky, "because I wanted to put some dignified indignity upon him, to insult him in order to call public attention to what he is doing in this country."

FIREMEN SEARCH BLAST RUINS FOR BODIES; 11 KNOWN DEAD

DETROIT, April 25.—With the known dead in the Briggs Manufacturing Company disaster placed at eleven, firemen today continued to pour water into the smouldering ruins of the plant where the bodies of five more employes are thought to be buried.

Six of eleven other severely burned victims have only a slight chance to live, according to receiving hospital doctors.

Searchers who dug in the smoking ruins of the plant all day yesterday unearthed only one charred body, which morgue officials were unable to identify. The other victims died of burns in hospitals.

Meanwhile Prosecutor Robert M. Toms started investigation to see if any criminal responsibility attacks to the explosion and fire, the most destructive in Detroit history. John H. French of the Briggs Company officially estimated the loss at $2,000,000.

Coroner James E. Burgess has announced that he will conduct an inquest into the disaster but the date has not as yet been fixed. The state department of labor and industry also is conducting an investigation.

THREE PRISONERS ESCAPE WORKHOUSE

CLEVELAND, O., April 25.—Authorities today were searching for three prisoners who escaped from Warrensville workhouse during the week end. The trio escaped after sawing bars. They were William Murphy, 28, Adam Lawrence, 26, and Sam Clark, 35.

EX-GOVERNOR ROSS ASKS DEMOCRATS TO PROVE TOLERANCE

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Ex-Governor Nellie Ross of Wyoming today called upon the Democratic party to "demonstrate that it stands four-square upon the principle of religious freedom which was the chief cornerstone upon which this government was builded."

In a speech to the National Women's Democratic Club, she said: "I am a Protestant unalterably by birth and conviction, and yet I should like to see a well-qualified Catholic elected to the highest office in the nation just to prove that this is, in reality, a republic in which we live and not one in name only.

"I denounce as unworthy of the precious heritage of American citizenship, any declaration by policy or practice, that prejudice rather than liberal principles shall prevail in this government.

"I am not desiring even to suggest to your minds any particular aspirant; certainly not to urge the qualifications of any potential candidate. It is only the principle involved in this subject that I would emphasize.

"It looks now as if a leading issue that is going to face us as Democrats this year is whether or not a Catholic can be nominated for the presidency of the Democratic party. It is an issue that cannot be dodged or evaded. Distasteful as it is to us all, it is well to have it brought in to the open, I think. I hope the Democratic women will sanction no policy that deprives any person in the United States of full rights and priviledges because of his religious affiliations."

MEXICO CONTINUES DRIVE ON REBELS

MEXICO CITY, April 25.—The Mexican government today continued its efforts to quell the rebel movement. Reiterating allegations that Catholic church leaders have incited rebellion officials are making a wide search for several clergymen who are still in Mexico.

The leading members of the Catholic episcopate have now been deported from Mexico, but there are still several bishops who are in hiding.

The military efforts to wipe out the rebellious movement continue in Jalisco and a band of twenty-five rebels who made an attack on the Laredo train a fortnight ago has been captured and their leader Mandoza killed.

Perfect Flying Saves Lives Of Youthful Passengers

NEW YORK, April 25.—Aviator Clarence D. Chamberlin, who, with Aviator Bert Acosta, recently set a new world record for sustained airplane flight, was again a hero today.

Ten minutes after the Wright-Bellanca plane which broke the world's endurance record was christened yesterday for its projected Paris flight, death and disaster threatened.

But a tragedy was averted through the coolness and skill of Chamberlin.

After Eloyse Levine, 9, daughter of Charles A. Levine, chairman of the Columbia Aircraft Corp., which built the plane, had broken a bottle of ginger ale over the nose and christened it the "Columbia," at Curtiss Field, L. I., Chamberlin rewarded the little girl, and Grace Jonas, 15, daughter of Ralph Jonas, president of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, with a ride in the air.

Immediately another plane flew alongside the "Columbia" and Pilot Dean C. Smith and Paul Herman, mechanic, gestured to Chamberlin, then held up a wheel to apprise him of the trouble.

Chamberlin then sped to Mitchel Field and slowly descended in long graceful spirals. He shut down the plane's speed to a minimum and tipped it over to the right side. He landed on the right wheel and skimmed along gracefully. When the plane had almost stopped it tipped to the left and damaged side, and stopped—a perfect landing.

The damage to the plane was slight and plans for starting the Paris flight in a few days were not abandoned.

SNYDER CASE FIGHT EXPECTED TO HINGE ABOUT CONFESSION

Prosecutor Starts Opening Statement As Trial Begins

COURTHOUSE, Long Island City, N. Y., April 25.—District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe began his address to the jury at 11:10 o'clock this morning at the trial of Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray for the murder of the woman's middle-aged husband, Albert Snyder, who was bludgeoned to death on the morning of March 20 as he slept.

Mrs. Snyder's alleged confession that she was present when her lover beat her middle-aged husband to death with an iron bar as he slept is to be the focal point around which the greatest legal fight of the trial is to be fought.

District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe will attempt during the course of the trial to introduce as evidence a twelve-page document signed by Mrs. Snyder in which the blonde defendant confessed she witnessed the actual killing of Albert Snyder early in the morning of Sunday, March 20.

"The statement was obtained under duress and therefore is not admissable as evidence," her attorneys contend.

OPENS CONGRESS

ROME, Apr. 25.—Premier Mussolini today opened the International Wheat Congress with thirty-eight nations participating.

TWENTY MORE LIVES TAKEN IN DISTRICT AS THOUSANDS FLEE

Sixteen Die When House Collapses—Predict Total Toll Will Reach 350—Hoover Asks For Ten Millions

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 25.—Sweeping before it death and destruction, the rampant Mississippi River today had added twenty deaths to its toll of life and flooded several additional towns during the past twenty-four hours.

Red Cross directors have established the greatest relief expedition in recent years. Contributions are pouring in from all parts of the country in caring for 150,000 refugees.

Collapse of a house harboring sixteen negroes four miles north of Greenville, Miss., yesterday sent all of the negroes to a horrible death. Three others died of disease at Greenville, due to the floods, one of pneumonia, one of mumps and a third of exposure. A white man was drowned at Pine Bluff, Ark.

The twenty additional deaths during the past twenty-four hours have brought the death toll of the greatest flood in the history of the Mississippi River up to approximately 150.

About 10,000,000 avres of farmlands are under water as a result of the floods. Army engineers, after a survey, announced that 6,000,000 acres are flooded in Arkansas and Mississippi alone.

Damage to crops will run into millions of dollars. The engineers said that 9,400 square miles in Mississippi and Arkansas were still under water. The engineers have not checked the flooded areas of Tennessee, Missouri, Kentucky and Louisiana say the total land will probably be about 10,000,000 acres when the final tabulation is made.

TOLL NEARS 350

J. S. Allen, levee engineer at Greenville, Miss., declared today that 200 would be a small estimate for the flood's toll of human life for the area from Vicksburg to the scene of the delta break at Mound's Landing alone. If this estime is correct for Mississippi, more than 350 live have been lost in the floods.

Five thousand of the 15,000 population of Greenville were still in the water soaked city today with a prediction that three feet of water will be added to the depth of the flood waters. More than 4,000 refugees, mostly negroes, were still on the Greenville levee today, awaiting transportation to Vicksburg for safety.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Apr. 25.—Five million dollars will "barely do half the job" set out for the Red Cross in the Mississippi flood stricken area, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover said today after a preliminary survey of the urgent tasks already facing the mobilized forces.

HOOVER MAKES SURVEY

At least $10,000,000 will be needed for a work which will require maintenance of the emergency agencies along a thousand miles of river front between St. Louis and New Orleans, he said.

"Never before have we faced an undertaking of such proportion," Hoover said after consulting with Harry M. Baker, national director of Red Cross disaster relief.

Baker, who has been in Memphis army, navy, public health and Red for several days co-ordinating with Cross activities throughout the entire flooded region, gave Secretary Hoover his latest reports from the thirty-four Red Cross concentration points along the river below Cairo, Illinois.

With the crest of the flood still to reach the lower Mississippi, todays' reports to Hoover showed estimated dead of at least 130 in seven state, with 150,000 already homeless or dependent upon relief agencies for food.

Hoovers's experience in famine relief throughout Europe during the war enabled him to appraise the situation in fifteen minute's conversation with Baker.

"Many of these homeless will have to be cared for by relief organizations for as much as six weeks," Hoover said.

"There are already more than 100,000 known to be pressing for aid at concentration camps and local relief stations. Feeding and housing this multitude alone for a single month, even without hospitalization and sanitary activities would tax the present visible resources of the Red Cross."

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The nation is responding generously to the appeal of the Red Cross for funds for flood relief.

It was announced at headquarters today that approximately $1,000,000 have already been secured. The minimum goal is $5,000,000.

During the absence of acting Chairman James L. Fieser, George E. Scott of Chicago, one of the war time leaders of the Red Cross, is in charge of national headquarters. He arrived here this morning to begin his duties. Fieser is on a trip through the flood area with Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Henry M. Baker, Red Cross director of relief, has established temporary general relief headquarters in Memphis.

Appeals for aid continued to pour in today from all over the stricken sections. Relief urgently is needed from Vicksburg, Miss., southward.

A dispatch from Vicksburg said that many of the refugees there were without food and clothing. Supplies are going forward to them rapidly.

ARGUMENTS TO JURY PRESENTED MONDAY FOR HEWITT TRIAL

Expected Case Will Reach Jury Monday Or Early Tuesday

JEFFERSON, O., April 25.—The fate of Floyd Hewitt, 16, alleged murderer of Mrs. Fred Brown and her five year old son at Conneaut last February, will probably be in the hands of eight men and four women late today or early Tuesday.

All evidence in the trial of the Conneaut youth, on the direct charge of beating little Fred Brown Jr. to death, has been presented and nothing remains except arguments and the charge of the presiding Judge Charles R. Sargent, before the case goes to the jury.

Hewitt predicted Saturday that he would be saved from the electric chair, according to jail attendants.

Prosecutor C. B. Cook, has expressed his belief that state rebuttal witnesses so thoroughly riddled the "alibi" claimed by the defense, that there can be little doubt regarding the outcome of the case.

Four hours have been assigned for state and defense argument, respectively.

FARMER HANGS

MARYSVILLE, O., Apr. 25.—Elmer Patrick, 60, York Township farmer, was found hanging by a rope in his barn here today. His throat had been slashed. He had been dead several hours.

DOMESTIC QUARREL RESULTS IN DEATH OF ONE-THREE INJURED

MARTINS FERRY, O., Apr. 25.—One is dead, one is reported dying and two are suffering serious bullet wounds at City Hospital here today as the result of a domestic quarrel. Peter Gallagher, 27, Yorkville confectioner, was shot and instantly killed last night, police report, as he sat in the kitchen of his aunt, Mrs. Mary Thomas.

Mrs. Thomas and her 19-year-old daughter, Goldie, were shot by George Thomas, 52, estranged husband, who then turned one of his two pistols upon himself.

Hospital authorities reported Thomas may recover, but his wife's condition is expected to prove fatal. Goldie Thomas was shot through the mouth, and will recover. A son of the estranged couple, escaped by running from the scene, while a married daughter turned off the lights and escaped injury.

The entire party had just returned to the home of Mrs. Thomas after attending Easter services at a Greek church.

AMERICANS RETURN FIRE FROM CHINESE

LONDON, April 25.—American and British warships have engaged with Chinese batteries at Suking, acording to an admiralty radio from Cringkiang today.

The dispatch stated that the United States Gunboat Peary and the British gunboats Kneppel and Wilsey were fired on from the bluff at Suking and they returned the fire with their main armaments.

BOOSTING XENIA

---is more than merely "thinking" or "saying" good things about the town. Real, honest-to-goodness BOOSTING means that every citizen of Xenia must carry out the following principles every day he lives here:

1. Assume his share of civic responsibilities and contribute his moral and material support to any movement toward good government. An efficient yet human civic administration is the backbone of a prosperous town.

2. Do his part in getting and keeping good churches and schools, for these instituitions are the builders of progress for the coming generation.

3. Patronize home merchants and professional men, for they are mainly responsible for the comforts, pleasures and opportunities that this community affords to its citizens.

4. Contribute his every effort toward keeping our streets and yards clean and attractive. An attractive town is good business, for a healthy atmosphere is one of the first requisites for drawing new citizens of the right sort.

5. Be generous in thought, word and deed to his neighbors and fellow citizens. Most of the happiness in Life is gotten by doing for others and entering into the spirit of co-operation.

These are the principles that, when every person does his best toward actually carrying them out, will bring us all prosperity and happiness. We prosper only as those about us prosper, so---

Every loyal citizen of Xenia is urged to become an active, working partner with us---let's do some REAL boosting for our town by MAKING IT BETTER IN EVERY WAY.

WOMAN'S CLUB, OLDEST IN COUNTRY, TO CELEBRATE.

Mrs. Mary Kinney will be hostess to the members of the oldest woman's club in the United States, when she entertains the Woman's Club of Xenia, in celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the club's founding, at her home on E. Second St., next Thursday.

The Woman's Club of Xenia has the honor of being the first society of its kind organized in the United States and is even older than Sorosis, which has often claimed the title of being first in the country. The Woman's Club was organized in Xenia in 1867, antedating Sorosis one year.

Mrs. Kinney has issued invitations to the thirty active members of the club and all associate and former members from out of the city to attend the anniversary party. The guests will be served luncheon at noon, followed by a program, the details of which are being kept a secret from the larger part of the membership. The event is a "red-letter day" in the annals of Xenia literary history and one to which Mrs. Kinney and the club members have looked forward with interest for some time.

Among the charter members of the Woman's Club, were the following, all of whom are deceased: Mrs. Charles Merrick, Mrs. Moses Barlow, Mrs. Samuel Newton, Mrs. M. C. Allison, Mrs. George S. Ormsby, Mrs. Downey, Mrs. Henrietta Monroe, Kate Edwards and Helen M. Walker.

The first president was Mrs. Monroe, the second, Mrs. Barlow. The club was organized as a purely literary club and has always confined itself to literary work. For some years it maintained a lecture course, during the winter season, bringing such people to Xenia as Theodore Tilton, Anna Dickinson, George Kannan and Paul DeChailu. The temperance crusade of the '70's caused a temporary cessation of the club's activities, but it resumed its work and there has been no break in its organization since that time. Mrs. Kinney is a former president of the club. The club is a member of the state and national federations of women's clubs.

MR. AND MRS. DODDS ARE HONORED BY OFFICE FORCE

Mr. Frank Dodds, former official with The George Dodds and Sons Granite and Marble Works, who is leaving with Mrs. Dodds this week for their new home in Central New York State, on the shores of one of the Finger Lakes, was honored by the office and sales force of the Dodds Company, with a surprise party at the home of Mr. Charles Bone, N. King St., Friday evening.

The entire office and sales force and their families attended the affair, which included about twenty people. The office employes presented Mr. Dodds with a handsome gift in token of appreciation of his association in the Dodds Company.

An impromptu program was arranged, including several musical numbers by talent present.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodds will motor to their new home in the east, leaving in a few days.

MISS JACKSON IS HOSTESS TO V. J. B. CLUB

Miss Edith Jackson capably filled the role of hostess when she received the V. J. B. Club at her home on Dayton Ave., Friday evening. Her sister, Mrs. Guy Toms was the assistant hostess.

PETITIONS ASKING RELEASE OF COUNTY PRISONERS FILED

Petitions seeking permanent release from the County Jail of Fred Harris, Bennie Lewis, Agnew White and Earl Cline under the insolvent debtor's law, were filed in Probate Court Saturday by Attorney F. L. Johnson.

Probate Judge S. C. Wright has not set a date for a hearing of the applications.

The four prisoners filed a schedule of debts with Attorney George H. Smith, newly appointed commissioner of insolvents of Greene County, April 7, affirming their financial state; were declared insolvent, and subsequently discharged from the jail by Sheriff Ohmer Tate, without bond, pending a final hearing before Judge Wright.

The petitions ask that Judge Wright confirm the temporary order of Commissioner Smith and that he make the orders of release permanent.

The petitions are based on the recent state supreme court ruling that convicted liquor law volators, sentenced to jail for non-payment of fines and costs, cannot legally be confined more than sixty days, providing they are insolvent.

Agnew White, 26, colored, 616 E. Second St., was committed to jail, December 27, 1926, by Mayor John W. Prugh in default of a fine of $250 and costs.

Fred Harris, 24, colored, 934 Brewster St., Detroit, Mich., was committed to jail October 10, 1925 by Mayor Prugh for non-payment of a fine of $1,500 and costs.

Bennie Lewis, 43, colored, 623 E. Church St., was sentenced to jail November 20, 1926 by the mayor for failure to pay a fine of $500 and costs.

Earl Cline, 21, 103 Bellbrook Ave., was received at the jail for defaulting in paying two fines of $1,000 and costs each, assessed by Mayor Prugh.

SPECIAL ARBOR DAY PROGRAM WILL TAKE PLACE AT CITY PARK

In anticipation of the ceremonies to be held Arbor Day, Friday, at Shawnee Park, Mrs. Charles A. Kelble, president of the Xenia Garden Club, is urging that all people planning to place "memory trees" in the park, have their trees planted by that date.

Schools, lodges and other organizations of the city, have planned special ceremonies for Friday. The "memory trees" are expected to play an important part in the day's program. Fourteen trees have already been placed.

The Garden Club's membership campaign is showing results with 350 members signed. The club has a goal of 1,000 for the year and members are working hard to reach that number.

Mrs. Kelble is urging that anyone interested in the work of the club, enter the contest being conducted by the organization, in line with the beautification program. A prize of $2 will be given any one giving the best suggestion for city beautification and $1 will be given for the second best suggestion. Five dollars will be given by the club at the end of the season to the person accomplishing the most work in the line of beautification in the city.

BEGINS SENTENCE AT REFORMATORY

Floyd Johnson, re-sentenced to an indeterminate period of confinement in Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield, O., recently by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy on a charge of being a parole violator, was taken to that institution Monday by Kenneth C. Barr, county road patrolman, to begin his sentence.

Johnson was found guilty by a jury in Common Pleas Court of an indictment charging assault on Herman Hazelbaker, but Judge Gowdy sustained a motion by defense counsel to set aside the verdict on the ground Mayor John W. Prugh, instead of binding him over for grand jury action, should have exercised original jurisdiction in the case.

However, Judge Gowdy revoked Johnson's parole from a prior conviction on a larceny charge and re-sentenced him to the state reformatory.

AUTOS DAMAGED IN CORNER COLLISION

Patrolman Fred Jones investigated an automobile collision at Third and Whiteman Sts. at 8:15 o'clock Monday morning in which a touring car was damaged to the extent of a bent fender and running board. No one was injured.

The accident occurred when a touring car owned by Ward Grant, and occupied bly his two aughters, being driven north on Whiteman St., drove onto Third St. without the formality of stopping at the intersection, police say.

A second machine, being operated by a man named Lucas, this city, west on Third St., crashed into the side of the car. The Grant car was slightly damaged.

ROTARY-KIWANIS TO HONOR MEMORY OF DEAD PHYSICIAN

Respect to the memory of the late Dr. W. H. Finley, Xenia physician and humanitarian, will be paid at a joint meeting of Xenia Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs, at the Elks' Club, Tuesday noon. Dr. Finley was a Rotarian but the two civic organizations are joining to honor the memory and works of the late physician.

Short talks will be given by both Rotarians and Kiwanians. "Dr. Finley as a Rotarian," will be the subject of C. S. Frazer, president of the Rotary Club. "Dr. Finley as a Citizen," will be the topic of Judge R. L. Gowdy and "Dr. Finley as a Physician," will be the subject taken by a Xenia fellow-physician. "Dr. Finley as a Christian" will be discussed by Karl R. Babb, president of the Kiwanis Club.

Dr. B. R. McClellan is chairman of the committee on arrangements for the meeting. Appropriate music will augment the program of the meeting.

SECOND OFFENSE OF LIQUOR VIOLATION BRINGS LARGE FINE

Oliver Warwick, colored, this city, was fined $300 and costs by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Saturday upon a conviction for the second offense of unlawful possession of liquor.

Warwick paid $100 of the fine and upon his application, was given the privilege of furnishing $400 bond guaranteeing payment of the balance of $200 due, within six months time.

He was convicted of the third offense of illegal possession of liquor in Common Pleas Court July 6, 1925 and sentenced to serve from one to five years in Ohio State Penitentiary and to pay a fine of $500.

The Appellate Court reversed the lower court's judgment in sentencing him for a third violation of the offense, but affirmed the conviction for second offense, as charged in the indictment when he was convicted of the third offense.

The case was remanded to Common Pleas Court for re-sentence on the second offense, the higher court holding the trial court erred in overruling the plea in abatement.

CENTRAL STUDENTS TAKE THIRD PLACE IN "STENO" TESTS

Participating with eight other schools in the annual typing and shorthand contests held Saturday morning at Roosevelt High School in Dayton, representatives of Central High School succeeded in placing third to Stivers and Roosevelt in the sectional shorthand events.

Stivers scored 488.2 points, Roosevelt 295.4 and Xenia, 98.8.

Greenville, Lebanon, Miamisburg, Roosevelt, Stivers, Xenia, Emerson, Hamilton and Trotwood schools had entrants in the events.

Novice, amateur and professional events were held in the shorthand contests. In the amateur class Gladys Beal, Xenia, was the only Xenia entrant to score, making 98.8 points to place third to Mary Fairchild, Stivers and Ethel Blim, Roosevelt. The winner had 99.3 points.

Three winners in each event are eligible to enter the state meet May 7 at Bowling Green.

LEAVES FOR GOTHAM

WASHINGTON, Apr. 25.—President Machado, of Cuba, left here this morning for New York. He will spend ten days in New York and then go to Chicago for a short visit.

FIRE DAMAGES ROOF

Sparks from a chimney flue setting fire to a shingle roof resulted in about $30 damage to the residence of Charles Edwards, 119 Cincinnati Ave., Monday morning at 11:55 o'clock. Firemen extinguished the blaze with a thirty-five gallon chemical. A small hole was burned in the roof.

HELPS A PAINFUL ACHING BACK

Lumbago and a stiff, aching back suggest at once the need of a good diuretic to stimulate kidney secretions and rid the system of troublesome poisons that cause the distressing aches. Mrs. Black of Petersburg, Va., says: "Before I took Foley Pills diuretic, I could not stoop over nor raise up without great pain. Now since taking them I have none." Ask for Foley Pills diuretic. A prompt improvement will amply repay you. Satisfaction guarantee. —Adv.

BIBLE THOUGHT

A GREAT CONTRAST:—For evil doers shall be cut off: but those that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the earth. Psalm 37:9.

CALL ON U. S. FIRST

Senator Edge of New Jersey came back from Central America with some timely remarks for those who make it a practice to assert that our Government, in foreign affairs, is always wrong. Of course, he says in effect, there will be criticism of any action the United States takes in Central America, and that is because the United States is the nation which acts, the one which is always appealed to by Central American nations in difficulties.

Indulgence in the practice of taking exception to every act or policy of the State Department, Senator Edge believes, is the chief factor in prolonging the reign of revolution and anarchy in Nicaragua and other Central American countries. Those who assail the acts of this country when it answers the appeals of small republics, furnish fuel to the fire of the minorities in those republics. In discussing our policy, Senator Edge speaks of the prevailing note heard by him:

"It was presented to me by every man with whom I talked. It was, in effect, that while there would undoubtedly be criticism whenever the United States assumed a position in connection with any revolutionary movement in Central America, the fact remained that, when any trouble threatened or actually existed, the United States always had been and always would be the first country to which either side or both sides in the controversy appealed for co-operation or recognition."

Opposition sides in Central American difficulties seize upon utterances of critics in America to talk of "imperialistic designs" of this country. It has become a stock argument in which no responsible Central American puts any faith. The United States is called upon repeatedly to serve in the cause of humanity and peace, to serve in thankless tasks, and the only worrying over so-called "imperialistic designs" is done by those who for political reasons must ever be "again" the Government.

PROFIT IN BEAUTY

A Chicago real estate firm has just converted a bare meadow near that city into a "forest," having planted 900 elm trees which averaged it is said, eight inches in diameter and thirty feet in height. Around the roots of each trans-planted tree there was nearly 1,000 pounds of earth.

This transplanting must have been costly, but it bespeaks on the part of the real estate firm, if not a love of beauty, at least a keen realization of the money-value of beauty expressed in terms of trees.

Too prevalent in some other communities is the ruthless habit of chopping down trees just when they are most beautiful—no doubt in the erroneous belief that trees and hick towns go together.

A contemporary describes betting as a means of getting something for nothing. Experience teaches us that it is usually a method of getting nothing for something.—Punch.

Little Old New York

NEW YORK, April 25.—She is a sweet-faced white-haired, motherly-looking woman, well dressed and benign. You see her any bright afternoon, dallying on the sunny side of the Avenue in the crowded environs of the Boob Bazaars. Once in a while she pauses with a smile to address some well-tailored passerby:

"Have you any frocks, or furs at home, that you would like to dispose of, M'lady?" she says. "I pay the highest price in the city for second-hand wear!"

A New Yorker and a lad from "Lunnon" engaged recently in a spirited, albeit good-natured argument with respect to the outstanding excellencies of British and American motor cars.

The Boy from Thamestown drives an extremely expensive and high-powered car, while admitting the comparative flexibility of Yankee motors on high gear, none the less was inclined to be "sniffy" at gear boxes as made by the Eminent Tinsmith of Detroit.

"All that you say may be true," replied the New Yorker; "but what can you do with your fluffy broad-A'd gear box that I can't do with mine?"

"I can play 'God Save the King' on it," was the somewhat unexpected reply.

The American laughed, but the other was serious.

"All right," he said, "listen."

He took the foot off the clutch and set the spark so that his engine was running at a fair rate of speed and changed his gears ever so lightly, so that they just scraped together and no more. The car's equipment of four forward and one reverse speeds gave him a range of five notes; and with those limitations he faithfully produced the royal anthem.

The New Yorker is now practicing the "Star Spangled Banner" as a counter attraction. He said to a friend the other day:

"I wish I had a Ford to practice on. They're inherently musical."

New York hotel managers have a way all their own. Take the case of Dave Belasco, who poses in his clerical collar with two fingers on his cheek in theatrical publications and cigaret ads.

David lived for twenty years with his wife in a hotel on upper Broadway. Last October Mrs. Belasco died and David sought other quarters. Before leaving the caravansarié he says he wrote to the management as follows:

"The thought never occurred to me that I should be leaving the Marie Antoinette, but, then, the thought had never occurred to me that death would interrupt the union between me and Mrs. Belasco; and since that has taken place I have suffered agony whenever I have entered our rooms."

The management sad they were sorry, of course, and all that sort of thing, but that they had never received any such letter and if Dave had written it he must have forgotten to drop in in the box. So they entered suit for $1,600.

David has requested a trial by jury and all he has to do is to get one widower in the box and he'll be sittin' purty.

Average Man's Day In Chicago, So it Seems

KELLYGRAMS by FRED C KELLY

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

Hotel men would let guests have more for their money if it weren't that most guests are over-anxious to obtain something for nothing.

In other words, the average person's zeal to get something for nothing is just what prevents him from getting it.

One of the New York hotel managers thought it would be a good advertising scheme to press his guests' clothes free of charge. Four men had always been able to take care of all pressing and mending for guests in the past, and while this had been done at a profit, the hotel was magnanimously willing to do it for nothing without raising the price of rooms.

But by the end of the first month the plan was hopelessly a failure. Instead of getting along with four men to do pressing, the hotel now required a force of twenty, and demands on the free service were constantly increasing. Slovenly guests who were in the habit of having their clothes pressed once a month, now demanded such service daily. They even must have ransacked the old family wardrobe for last year's clothes to bring along in an extra suitcase, for free rejuvenation. In desperation, the hotel had to start charging again and guests once more became less fastidious, but normal.

I asked the manager of a famous hotel why he doesn't do guests' laundry free and add the cost to the room charge. But he says that he couldn't hope to get enough more for a room to cover the expense of such free service.

"If guests would only play fair," he said, "and send us no more laundry than they do when they pay for it, we could wash it for nothing. But the minute we remove the charge everybody wants to get his money's worth and expects to have all his clothes washed at least once a day."

In other words, if people didn't try so hard to get something for nothing, they might succeed.

We could get more if we demanded less.

How to Achieve Beauty

LEARN TO CULTIVATE EYE BEAUTY

Last week I took the subject of hair for my articles as I decided at the beginning of the spring season that it would be interesting to take the body from the crown of the head to the sole of the feet and devote one week's beauty articles to each of the essential parts of the face and figure. And with the hair disposed of in last week's series of beauty talks, I will devote this week to the care of the eyes, eyebrows, eye area and in fact the total subject of eyes. Next week I will talk about the skin and so on until we have considered every part of one's beauty.

For many of you who are taking these articles seriously, it may be well to start clipping them so that you will have complete information on the care of your beauty from head to foot by the time I have finished this group of daily articles. Today, I am going to touch on the cultivation of a favorable expression of the eye. This is a big subject and though I can by no means do it justice in the short space I can devote to it today, nevertheless I can give you a few suggestions that may furnish food for thought.

The eye is the greatest revealer of character that there is, for the expression of the eye unerringly reflects your prevailing mode of thought and habit of living. Prove this for yourself by noticing the prevailing characteristics of people you meet and see if these are not also reflected in the expression of their eyes.

You will find many different types of eyes that correspond with various types of temper. For instance, there is the soft soulful eye that goes with the sweet and loving disposition. There is the shrewd and crafty eye that goes with the calculating disposition; the hard cold eye that goes with the temperament where the head rules the heart. Then again there are the mirthful eyes that go with the happy disposition of people who possess a good sense of humor and who appreciate a good time. Also there is the philosophical eye that goes with the temperament of the deep thinker, and so on. Today I will have to leave you with the thought that your eyes are going to reveal your inner-most thoughts and emotions to the world—do what you may to cover them.

So if you do not want your eyes to reflect the bad side of you to the world, set about eradicating any bad side for your eyes will surely broadcast to the world the character of the thoughts you think and the kind of a life you live.

The color of one's eyes also reflects to a considerable degree one's character and health. It is claimed by well known authorities on the eyes that brown-eyed women are more affectionate than those with blue eyes. That men with brown eyes usually live longer than blue-eyed men. Geniuses frequently possess eyes of different color, that is one blue and one brown eye Wide-set eyes indicate intellectuality—close-set eyes are indicative of craftiness and cunningness.

You can consciously cultivate a pleasing expression in your eyes if you really want to and a good way to begin is first to put into practice a constructive thought habit and, secondly, to go before your mirror and try to reproduce what is known as the "open" countenance which is the reflection of right thinking, soulful qualities. For the open countenance you must open the eyes wide, let the muscles of your face relax. In other words everything in your facial expression is expanded. There must be no tension anywhere, no rigidity of the eye, no setting of the jaw. And the whole body should respond to this relaxation of the face.

The eye might be called the lever which floods the countenance with emotion. Learn to control it, so that, like the actress, you may express through it whatever you will. It is a well known psychological law that consistent attention given to the expression of a feeling in time makes that an inherent part of the personality. And what could be finer or better than cultivating the habit of expressing fine, big beautiful thoughts and emotions What more productive of attracting to yourself love, friendship and admiration?

"Democratic government stands challenged throughout the world because of its inefficiency. Thomas Jefferson is even more important in 1927 than he was in 1787. Keeping HEALTHY by Dr. A. F. Currier

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

It is a pleasure to offer the following article on this subject by Dr. Leroy W. Hubbard, orthopedic surgeon to the health department of the state of New York, whose vast experience in the treatment of infantile paralysis gives authority to every word he publishes in relation to it.

Infantile paralysis is an acute, infectious disease which is caused by a specific germ. It may occur in isolated cases or may become epidemic in any community, children under the age of ten years are most susceptible, but no age is exempt.

In the majority of cases the acute illness is followed by paralysis or weakness of one or more muscles, but there are many who are not paralyzed. Therefore, "infantile paralysis" is not an accurate term, as it is not confined to children, and very many who have it are not paralyzed.

The term used by the doctors is polio-myelitis or polio.

It is probable that the communication of the disease from one person to another is due largely to the non-paralytic cases which are not recognized and in which no precautions are taken, but it is also due to those who are disease carriers and transfer the germs as is done in diphtheria.

The germs enter the body through the mouth and nose and leave it through the same channels, and by the intestines, so that if the hands are soiled by these discharges healthy persons may pick up the germs and become infected.

This hand to mouth method is probably the most common form of contagion, but uncooked food may also carry the disease.

Two years ago fifteen cases occurred in a small city through the medium of a farmer's boy of sixteen, who had the disease, but continued to milk the cows whose milk was distributed to that city. There fore, every case should be carefully isolated and all discharges from the body destroyed or disinfected.

The usual initial symptoms are fever, headache, nausea and vomiting, severe prostration and stiffness in the neck.

Paralysis usually comes within forty-eight hours, but may be deferred for several days. The germs after entering the body are carried to the brain and spinal cord and their membranes and produce inflammation. If this is severe the delicate nerve cells will cease to function and the muscles with which they are associated will be paralyzed.

Under such conditions a physician should be consulted at once. No drug has yet been discovered which has any control over the disease. The best treatment for at least five or six weeks is complete rest in bed.

The body should be kept warm with hot water bottles or electric pads and the limbs supported by light splints. Sitting up must not be permitted under any circumstances.

In some cases restoration of muscular power will be nearly complete, but should this not occur, there is always hope of a gradual, though slow, improvement under proper treatment.

This treatment consists of light massage to improve the circulation and muscle tone and of easily performed exercises.

It has recently been discovered that patients with weakened muscles can perform exercises in water with less fatigue than in any other way, and this method of treatment is now being extensively used.

In one of the southern states where there is a large spring of natural warm water an establishment for the treatment of these cases of paralysis has recently been started and the results so far have been very satisfactory.

Walking should not be allowed for several months if the attack has been at all severe.

Many cases will require braces for some time and some even, for the remainder of their lives, and these should always be applied under the direction of a competent orthopedic surgeon.

Under the present methods of treatment there should be very few helpless cripples.

SU-THOL for Headaches

Relieve headache or periodic pain without any bad after-effects. German and American Science produced Su-thol to stop all pain.

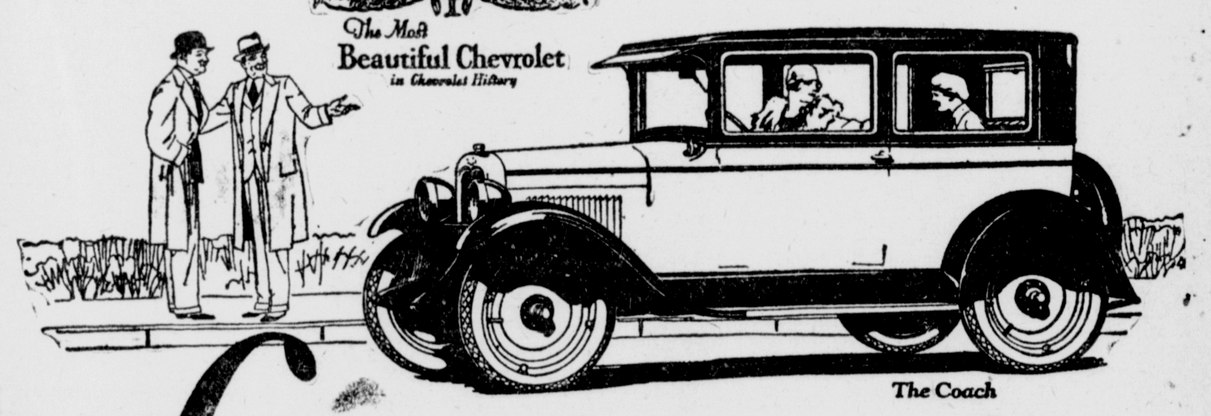

"I used to have to go to bed for 3 days every month on account of terrible headaches, until I started using Su-thol tablets. I had tried many things for relief, but got none until I tried Su-thol. It is the best medicine I ever used. Publish this for I would be glad if all women could get the benefit I have. Signed, Mrs. C. H. Rutledge, 4474 W. 157th St., Cleveland, Ohio."

The cost is trivial—the results quick and sure.

Reserves Win First Buckeye League Game Sunday

RAGGED OPPOSITION AIDS BOB HERMAN TO OSBORN VICTORY

Locals Hit In Pinches To Grab Opening Loop Tilt—Jacobs Pitches Well But Is Undermined By His Support

BOB HERMAN'S great right arm, and ragged playing by the visiting team, coupled with a devastating attack in the second, third and fourth rounds, enabled the Xenia Reserves to win their opening game in the Buckeye League from the Osborn Miami Cements 6 to 1 Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

There wasn't much to it but Bob Herman. He had a puzzling curve and mixed it up in good shape with a fast ball. As a result only seven hits were gathered by the losers and these were so restricted that no two came in the same inning.

Herman's pitching approximated the best and the Reserve twirler should have been credited with a scoreless game. After being blanked for seven rounds, Osborn scored its lone run in the eighth stanza, an unearned tally due to an error by Rader.

Harner hit a short fly which Rader dropped after a short run. Carr also hit to Rader and both runners were safe when the shortstop threw to second too late to force Harner, who was injured on the play sliding into second. Sipe ran for him. Steger advanced both runners with a sacrifice and Sipe scored on a clean single to right by Dennis. Herman then pulled out of the hole by fanning Barth and getting Nolan on an easy roller to Scott.

Jacobs pitched a creditable game for Osborn allowing but eight hits, six of which were bunched in three innings, and should have been scored on only once. The Osborn hurler, who pitched three innings for the Reserves last Sunday, was something of a puzzle but faulty support proved his undoing.

The Reserves came in contact with the plate six times. They opened the scoring early, counting twice in the second. Durnbaugh singled for a starter, counting twice in the second. Durnbaugh singled for a starter. Tangeman flied out but Cyphers dropped a double in right sending Durnbaugh to third. Keifer walked, filling the bases. Durnbaugh scored and the bases were again clogged when Harner boosted Rader's easy roller. Herman's long sacrifice fly to Carr plated Cyphers but Wirtz struck out, ending the rally.

Xenia had another big inning in the third, tallying three times aided by two errors at the outset. Weller, the first batter, was safe at first when Circle dropped his long fly. He stole second and took third as Black was safe at first on Steger's fumble. The Reserve captain pilfered second but Durnbaugh fouled out. Cyphers scored Weller and Black with a single over second, Tangeman getting to third when Harner, covering that bag, dropped Dennis' peg. He scored on Keifer's out at first.

The final run was scored in the fourth as a result of three clean wallops. Herman surprised with a single to left, but was forced by Wirtz. Weller fouled out to third but Black and Durnbaugh singled in succession, plating Wirtz.

Durnbaugh, as usual, was the batting hero of the game with three singles. Cyphers got two safeties, one a double. Carr led the visiting hitters with two hits. Reserves ran wild on the bases, stealing no less than five sacks.

Xenia meets Harshmanville in its second Buckeye League game next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Washington Park. Harshman did not fare so well in its opener Sunday, losing to the Dayton Police 10 to 2 with Glass on the mound for the losers. In the other league game of the day, the Beavertown Reds nosed out their old foe, Bellbrook, 8 to 7, in a contest which lasted fifteen innings. Lineup and summary:

GREENFIELD BEATS BOWERSVILLE WHEN SUPPORT IS RAGGED

Wells Pitches Ably But Errors Help K. I. O. Leaguers

Ragged playing by his teammates in the eighth inning proved the undoing of Clarence "Dick" Wells, star hurler, and the Bowersville Bayliffs were defeated in their season's opener by the Greenfield team of the K. I. O. League, 9 to 5 Sunday afternoon on the latter's diamond.

Bowersville was weak at bat when hits were needed, and this deficiency, together with several costly errors, was responsible for the defeat.

Ballengee of McDermott; Breitanback, Covington, Ky., and Rowe, Portsmouth, alternated in the box for Greenfield, while Wells pitched the entire distance for the Bayliffs.

Wells struck out thirteen men and performed the worthy feat of retiring the side single handed in the second inning, fanning three players. He whiffed one or more batters in every inning.

Greenfield held a four-run lead in the first five innings, scoring twice in the first and third. Bowersville got two in the sixth, the home team one in the seventh, and the visitors tied the score with a three-run rally in the first half of the eighth.

Greenfield then won the game in its half of the inning by counting four times. The team should have been retired in order but three errors and two hits combined to produce the four tallies.

Bowersville was outhit fifteen to eight. Cox, Bock and Wells each hit safely twice for the Bayliffs. Adams had a perfect day at bat for Greenfield, collecting five hits, including a triple, in as many times at bat.

Bowersville will open its season in the Triangle League against Jamestown at Jamestown Sunday afternoon, May 1. The game is called for 3 o'clock.

UNITY OF SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK PLAN

Plans to unite Sunday School work of the county into a solid organization to appeal to members and people outside of the Sunday School, were laid at the meeting of the County Sunday School Executive Board at the office of J. Harry Nagley, second vice president, Xenia, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A program of work was outlined, designed to touch every Sunday School in the county. Three meetings were arranged, the first at Yellow Springs May 15, when Sunday School workers from that village, Fairfield, Osborn, Byron, Yellow Springs and Clifton, will meet. The second meeting is May 29, at Jamestown, when Cedarville, Ross Twp., and Jasper workers will lay plans. The last meeting will be for all Sunday School workers of the county at Xenia, June 1. Each group will have an afternoon institute to inspire interest in Sunday School work.

OSTEOPATH WILL OPEN OFFICE HERE

Dr. A. B. May, osteopath, who has been associated with Dr. J. A. Yoder, in the Steele Building, is opening his own offices for the practice of osteopathy in the Allen Bldg., Suite Five, he announced Monday.

Dr. May will open his new offices Tuesday morning, April 26. He has been associated with Dr. Yoder the past two years and a half. Dr. May came to Xenia from the Des Moines, Ia., Still College of Osteopathy and had some experience in his work while in Des Moines.

TRIANGLE BASEBALL LEAGUE FORMED; THREE GREENE COUNTY TEAMS LISTED

Organization of the Triangle Baseball League, composed of six Miami Valley teams, has been effected for the coming season.

Teams entered in the league include the Bowersville Bayliffs, Spring Valley, Modern Woodmen, of Dayton, Jamestown, Wilmington and Waynesville. The first three clubs are designated as road teams and the latter three will stage all their games on the home diamonds.

Newly elected officers of the loop are; William Shroyer, Jr., 45 E. Fourth St., Dayton, O., president; Walter Ewing, Wilmington, vice-president; and William Doudna, Jamestown secretary and treasurer.

The board of directors is composed of the managers of the six clubs.

The league will have its formal opening games Sunday afternoon, May 1.

Spring Valley and Jamestown opened their league season a week earlier than anticipated, Spring Valley winning 13 to 1 at Jamestown Sunday afternoon. Lucas pitched for the losers but was handicapped by ragged fielding behind him.

BEAVERTOWN REDS AND DAYTON POLICE WIN LEAGUE GAMES

Xenia Reserves, Beavertown Reds and the Dayton Police won their opening games in the six-team Buckeye League Sunday afternoon.

Reserves won impressively from the Osborn Miami Cements by a score of 6 to 1.

Leeper yielded but five hits and struck out eleven men, as the Dayton Police defeated Harshmanville 10 to 2 at Harshmanville. Glass, Alpha, was on the hill for Harshman, and was touched for twelve hits, bunched in the first, second and sixth innings.

Beaver won a thrilling fifteen-inning game from Bellbrook at Beavertown by a score of 8 to 7. Bellbrook jumped into a four-run lead but Beaver managed to tie the score at 5 to 5 in the ninth.

In the tenth both teams tallied twice but in the fifteenth stanza, Brown's long double to center, his second of the game, scored Hartman with what proved to be the winning run. Thirty-three hits were made by both teams in the slugfest, nineteen of which were obtained by the winners.

STUDENTS TO OFFER OPERA "PINAFORE"

The comic opera, "Pinafore," a Gilbert and Sullivan production, will be presented Thursday and Friday nights, April 28 and 29 by students and faculty of Antioch College at the Yellow Springs Opera House.

Rehearsals have been proceeding satisfactorily for several weeks under the direction of Mrs. Charles W. Putnam. The two performances are for the benefit of the Social Service League.

The play will begin promptly at 8:15 o'clock both evenings. Admission of 35 and 50 cents will be charged.

Xenians were given impressions of the opera to be presented at the time of the annual Kiwanis Club show here several weeks ago.

BELLBROOK PUPILS WILL GIVE RECITAL

Bellbrook grade school and high school pupils, who have been studying instrumental music under Miss Maxine Grindle during the past school year, will entertain their parents and friends with a recital at the Bellbrook High School auditorium Tuesday evening, April 26 at 8 p. m.

Following pupils will participate in the recital: Piano numbers—Marie Berryhill, Evelyn Peterson, Helen Tate, Irma Zurowise, Virginia Lackey, Cynthia Ann White, Mary Pierce and Charles Bahns. Violinists—Geneva Bond, Wanda Lee Peterson, Thomas Sheets and Louise Smith. Celloist—Robert Tate. Ukelele—Paul Glotfelter and Woodrow Miller.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS GUESTS OF SOCIETY

Greene County Commissioners will be guests of the Greene County Medical Society at the meeting of the Five-County Medical Group at Lebanon, O., Tuesday, at Memorial Hall.

Commissioners of the five counties have been invited to attend the meeting, when an address on rabies will be given. The joint meeting is expected to result in stringent action against the spread of rabies in this part of the state.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. J. C. ALLISON

Mrs. J. C. Allison, 70, formerly of Xenia, died at her home in Topeka, Kan., Friday morning at 7 o'clock, according to word received by Xenia relatives. Mrs. Allison's death occurred suddenly, from heart trouble.

Mr. Allison, who was associated in the firm of Allison and Townsley in Xenia a number of years, died in Topeka eighteen months ago. His death was also due to heart trouble. Funeral services for Mrs. Allison were held in Topeka, Monday.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Louise McClure, wife of Common Pleas Judge McClure of Topeka, and two grandsons. Mrs. Allison, who has resided in Topeka about twenty years, has several Xenia relatives and a large host of friends who will regret to learn of her death.

After the "Flu" is over —you need a Tonic

Help Is Needed to Restore Your Wasted Strength and Energy.

"Flu" leaves the body weakened and rundown. In such case, a tonic is clearly indicated. Restore the appetite and rid yourself of that let-down feeling.

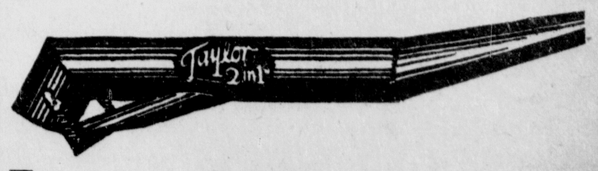

"Flu" is a very enervating disease. It leaves its victims so weak and debilitated that there is as much danger from the after-effects as from the disease itself. In other words, after an attack of the "flu," you need a selective tonic to rebuild the system so that you may have your old-time strength and energy restored.

S.S.S. is unequalled for restoring strength and vitality.

You owe it to yourself and family to give S.S.S. a trial. It helps Nature build up red blood corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the body is nourished. It is time-tried and reliable. S.S.S. is made from the roots of fresh herbs and plants, and is prepared in a scientific way in a modern laboratory.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

The Theatre

Ever so many years ago when vaudeville was known as "Variety," all New Yorkers on amusement bent, wended their way to the Music Hall of Tony Pastor in Fourteenth St., next door to Tammany Hall. It was at Tony Pastor's that Lillian Russell became famous.

Here also Maggie Cline introduced her famous song, "Throw Him Down McCloskey." John W. Kelly, the rolling mill man, the Russell Brothers, Lizzie Raymond, Harry Kernell, Lottie Gilsen, Lew Dockstader and hundreds of other stars of yesteryear entertained. WABC will present "A Night at Tony Pastor's" as a feature of it's program Monday night at 9 o'clock. Do not be surprised if you should hear "She is Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage," "Just Tell Them That You Saw Me," "Two Little Girls in Blue," "The Picture That Is Turned Towards the Wall," "Baggage Coach Ahead," "The Fatal Wedding," "Down Went McGinty," "Her Golden Hair Was Hanging Down Her Back," as well as "After the Ball," and many other favorites of old Tony Pastor days.

Being in three successive dramatic failures can kill a star, a theatrical man told me yesterday, although the star may be a better actress and better looking than at any time in her career, a well known New York writer says.

And any actor or actress, no matter how important his or her roll is, will have a hard time finding a job if she has been in five successive failures. The reason is that manager and producers believe in hoodoos.

They have the superstition that an actor or an actress who has played in failures are hoodooed and that they hoodoo the show by their presence, dooming it to an early death.

A star who was famous until this season is in permanent eclipse, although he does not know it yet. How should he? He is as good as he ever was. But he has been in three successive dramatic failures this year. They were weak shows and his acting had nothing to do with their demise.

But producers and managers have got the idea that he is a hoodoo and that he hoodooed the shows he was in this season. I am told that not a manager will give him a stellar role next year. He has a contract which runs for some time yet and he will draw a salary until the contract is up, but his career as a star is ended.

There is a musical comedy in town that is a hit. For several weeks it was selling out two weeks in advance. There was a slump in the box office receipts and investigation proved that one of the chorus girls had been in four failures in succession. The producer and the whole cast believe the girl is a hoodoo and they are on pins and needles over her presence in the show.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By GEORGE McMANUS

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The WAY I FEEL ABOUT IT

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Prohibition is not succeeding as well as was expected among those who never expected it to succeed as well as was expected.

EPH SNOW

"Now that he is free again maybe it would be better for the rest of us if Doc Cook would discover the North Pole again," suggests Eph Snow.

THERE ARE WORMS AND WORMS

Just because she is married to a book worm is no sign a woman isn't fond of the products of the silk worm.

BUT HE HAS TO BE "IN CONFERENCE"

A wife is a person who can't figure how a man could have "a hard day at the office" when all he has to do there is to count his money and dictate letters to a good-looking stenographer.

REFLECTING ON CHINA

Some of the foreigners who have been wondering what they could get out of China are now wondering how they can get out of China.

Those Chinese coolies won't keep cool. A lot of them are losing their heads.

The Chinese invented fireworks and now the Powers may have to put the fireworks out.

Probably the whole trouble is that the Chinese government structure is full of Chinks.

RECALL BUT NO ENCORE

How do you account for the fact that the very people who say the big time Volstead act is a flop, are trying to recall it?

IN OUR TOWN

Bert Needless, our former prosecuting attorney, thinks we could stamp out John Barleycorn if when we put our foot on him we'd keep our hand out of his pockets.

WHO REMEMBERS

When the best sign of spring was durg store windows filled with bottles of "blood purifier?"

A SHORT STORY

When the judge told her she could not have alimony you ought to have seen Mazie's face fall," said the first chorine.

"And to think," responded the second, "she had just had it lifted."

HALF-MINUTE ESSAY

When governments break down, their people break up.

Dictation nearly always follows abdication.

Thus when the King of Italy made himself scarce, Mussolini made himself numerous.

Better be bled white by an inefficient government than bled red by a vicious one.

There is Russia that rebelled against an absolute monarchy and what she got in its place was an absolute shame.

THE POINT OF VIEW

When President Coolidge
Goes West, next summer,
It will not be
To "grow up with the country."
But to make up with the country-men.

MINOR MUSINGS

Somehow, the things that are "good for you" never are good for anything else.

People who have no reason to marry, frequently prove they have no reason by marrying.

After a man decides he is an after-dinner speaker, he never means the same to his business again.

What a shallow thinker believes to be sound logic usually is just that—"sound" logic.

If a pioneer settler and an early settler mean the same thing would it be all right to call one a pioneer settler who "settles" on the first of the month?

If the soft coal miners really must strike, they have a nice day for it.

With nearly all our marines in China, what if another Nicaraguan should go on a rampage?

GETTING BACK TO NATURE

PLEASURABLE, PROFITABLE GARDENING AT HOME

GARDEN NOVELTIES

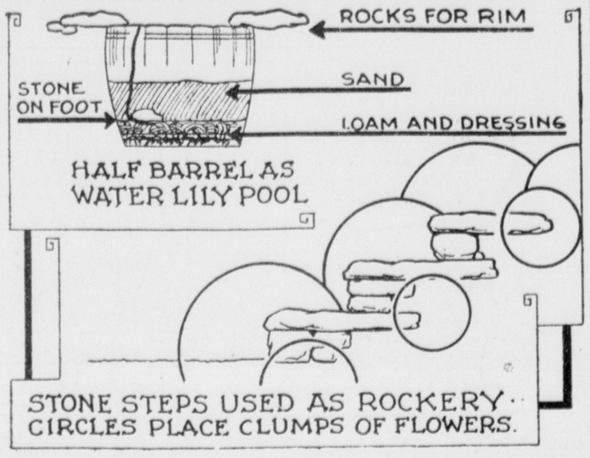

By JOHN A. CRAWFORD
Specialist in Horticulture
SIXTEENTH ARTICLE

Bird-baths, gold-fish pools, rockeries, stone steps, and stepping stones often add the artist's finishing touch to a garden. The smallest backyard paradise can have one of these, perhaps more.

Stepping stones can replace the trodden strip of grass from the cellar door to the hose tap in the back of the house. Be sure to lay the stones flush with the sod and supported somewhat on their undersides by other rocks to prevent heaving or undue settling. If half of your yard is a twenty-degree slope or steeper a pair of stone stairs at the foot of it, roughly sunk into the hillside, gives a layout of a theater appearance, the steps being the stage. In building such steps use plenty of stones, or bricks if you desire, or slabs, and anchor the flat part well underneath the hill above it. Old discarded marble mantlepieces, rough pudding stones found around Cleveland, or the lime-stone chunks in Indiana, or the split field rock to be found in New York or Pennsylvania all can be used for building these charming rostrums.

MAKE YOUR OWN POOL

Gold-fish pools and water-lily ponds can be had by anybody. The small backyard can best afford half a barrel type, sunk in the ground. Cover the bottom with three inches of good loam. Add to that an inch or two of well-rotted manure and compost of leaves. On top of that put two inches of white sand. The sand serves two purposes; first it gives a clear bottom to gaze down into, for lizards to play on and fish to swim over. Second, it is the proper bedding for water lily roots. They should not be allowed to touch even the most thoroughly decomposed manures. Anchor water-lily roots with a stone so that they won't float to the surface or be washed out of the sand when you pour a pailful of water into the tub. Waterlily roots can be bought this spring to blossom in June.

In larger places, or in formal gardens, concrete or stone pools can be built. An amateur can make one. They must have patience enough to plan it in advance, to make wooden or sheet-metal forms; to dig a hole much larger than the bowl of the pool will require, and be willing to buy enough cement to make a good concrete mixture. Consult your neighborhood mason for the proper cement mixing formula for a water-tight pool. Such a pool should be at least a foot deep and the bottom should be covered with four inches of soil and leaves. Sand is not essential in a large pool. If you have a four foot by six foot pool, waterlily pads four inches to six inches across will not be too large. In a sunken barrel, water-lilies with smaller leaves, perhaps two inches in diameter to spangle the water mirror, are more in keeping with the size of your undertaking. Good taste applies in these novelties as much as in color blending in the flower beds.

NOT A GRAVEYARD

A rockery should not suggest a mausoleum. Too often they are just heaps of rocks or mounds of earth studded with rocks in the middle of an otherwise good looking lawn. Rockeries belong at one side where they won't be stumbled over. They might flank the steps mentioned previously. If the lily pool glistens at the foot of a slope, or next to the stone wall, or the foundation of a house, rocks might be piled around it to give it a suggestion of secretness. Remember that the soil in a rockery often stays cool and moist when the rest of the garden will be parched, and for that reason plants that need the early spring soil will thrive there a month later than they would in a sundried bed. The alpine flowers, brought down from the Swiss mountains, to the lowlands step by step, generation by generation, make the best and most colorful displays for such layouts.

Be sure to have your rocks set firmly before you plant around them. They need not look like a pile of cannon balls, nor the jagged and exposed edge of an upright ledge. Some should be in flat, some in upright positions. Some of the rocks can be shoebox size, some fist size. One might be a foot square, weighing a hundred pounds. Lay them together, however, in such a way that they blend in shape, slope and dimension with the ground's features before them, and with the hillside, the trees, or the house behind.

HER MAN FOREVER MATED

by BEATRICE BURTON
author of "Love Bound"

© JOHNSON FEATURES INC. 1926

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR is married to RANDALL PHELPS, the type of man who is in love with any woman but the one who is his wife.

He has an affair with Sylvia's best friend, FAY SHIRLEY, just before her marriage to EDDIE CARTER, a fat and prosperous broker. This affair ends when Sylvia tells Ranny that she is going to have a baby, and for a time he settles down and behaves himself.

But shortly after the birth of RANNY, JR., he returns to his old habits of poker playing and promiscuous love-making, just as Sylvia's AUNT AGONY had predicted. And Sylvia has to give piano lessons to help make both ends meet. She goes on with her singing lessons, too, but Ranny won't let her sing in public because he is jealous of her voice, as so many husbands are jealous of their wives' accomplishments. Sylvia writes a popular song, "When Everything's Said," and saves the money to make a down payment on a house. The tiny flat where they live is no place to raise a baby, as she realizes.

Ranny goes joy-riding one night with a strange girl. Sylvia, returning from the home of MISS SARAH WILK with her brother, PETER WILK, sees the pair together in the car, and later Ranny admits that he "picked up" the girl. A week later they meet her at a party given by his sister, LOLLY BOYLE, and Sylvia learns that she is ELSIE LEOPOLD, a bachelor girl who owns a little gift shop. That night Ranny becomes angry when one of the men, WOODY KING, makes love to Sylvia and takes her home.

Ranny, quarrelsome and angered by Sylvia's silence, leaves the house and fails to return that night.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XLII

"WHAT did Lolly tell you? That Ranny is over at his mother's house?" asked Fay, who had turned around from the mirror to listen.

"She hung up before I had time to ask her," Sylvia answered. She was running rapidly through the pages of the phone book, looking for the number of a taxicab company. "Father Phelps is very ill, and I'm going right over."

"Don't bother to call a cab," Fay stopped her, as she took down the receiver once more. "I'll run you over to the Phelps' in a minute. Just wait until I get this eyebrow on straight." She went on drawing a fine arch over her eye, with a soft brown pencil.

Fay's brows and lashes were colorless. It took her half an hour every morning to darken them.

Sylvia watched her now, as she picked up a little box of sticky white cream and began to rub it over her freckles. Then she powdered over the cream, and when her complexion was dead-white, she covered her mouth with orange-red lip paste. The effect was bizarre, not to say startling.

"One of my worst nightmares is a dream that I'm on a desert island with a good-looking man and no make-up!" she said suddenly to Sylvia, with a giggle. "Can you feature anything worse?"

Then her face sobered. "The one reason why I stick to Eddie," she went on, "is because he likes me no matter how I look. He's seen me without a scrap of rouge on my face, and still he's strong for me. I'd never dare let any other man on the face of the earth see me as I really am! If I did, he'd probably start running, and never stop."

She began to whistle cheerfully, as she packed all her make-up into a silver box on the top of her dresser. Then she picked up a gold-topped atomizer from her dressing table, and sprayed herself generously with perfume. "There, now, I guess I'm ready to go out and face my fellow-woman!" she announced cheerily, and picked up a green sports hat and sweater from the window seat.

"Now, just look at you!" she exclaimed, when she and Sylvia were tucked into the flying roadster, with the baby between them on the seat. "You paint not, neither do you rouge, yet the sun in all its glory, can not glow, can not show up a single flaw on your face! How Ranny can run around with a cheap thing like this Elsie Leopold, when he has you, is a Chinese puzzle to me!"

Sylvia flushed. "Nonsense!" she said, as women do when they are flattered. "Of course, I use rouge and powder!"

But she knew that what Fay said about her being pretty was true enough. She knew that she was prettier now than she ever had been—prettier than any of the girls that Ranny had lost his heart to, since his marriage.

YOUNRanny! Her thoughts were never Jamy from him very long. They flew n now, as she wondered if he was s father's house or not.

was.

He was standing between the tall white pillars of the porch, as Fay's car swung into the gravelled driveway that divided the lawn from Mother Phelps' sunken garden.

He still wore his wrinkled evening clothes, and no collar.

"For crying out of turn!" Fay laughed, "look at your Friend Husband! He looks as if he'd slept in his boiled shirt and his freckles!"

It turned out that that was exactly what he had done.

Lolly told Sylvia all about it, when Ranny had vanished up to the second floor with his son on his arm.

"Your wandering boy was out all last night, wasn't he?" Lolly began. "He came back to our house after he took you home. And he and Elsie Leopold went out for a ride, somewhere. Then, about three o'clock, he came back and said he was going to stay at our house all night. I can't imagine why he wouldn't go home to you—"

"I'll tell you why," Sylvia surprised her by saying. "He was peeved at me because he saw Woody King trying to get fresh with me last night! He said it was my fault—and you know it wasn't, Lolly, don't you? You know I never look at a man!"

Lolly brushed her wavy hair back from her forehead with an exquisite little hand. She did all her own work in the tiny bungalow, but no one would have guessed it, to look at her.

Twice a week she had her hair marcelled and her nails "done" by a woman who did Sally King's, too. She still took as much care of her small, perfumed self as she ever had done in the days before her amazing marriage to Thomas Boyle.

She looked thoughtfully at Sylvia, now, from under lashes that were heavy with black oil.

"The trouble with you is that you're buried alive, Sylvia," she said, with the air of a wise old owl. "You think that just because somebody slipped a wedding ring over your finger, you must never look at another man again, as long as you live! And you're a simp to think it! If I were you, I'd show Mr. Randall Phelps that I was just as attractive to me as he is to women! He needs a lesson."

She turned sharply, as Ranny came running down the stairs.

"Yes, you do need a lesson!" she said, facing him, "and if I were Sylvia, I'd give you one or two that you'd remember! The way you acted last night with that Elsie Leopold! And she isn't pretty, even!—"

She would have said much more, but Ranny interrupted her. "Dad's still conscious, and mother thinks he's asking for you," he said, and Lolly jumped down from the hall table, and ran up to the second floor.

"The darned kid! What's she been saying to you?" he asked Sylvia, when his sister was not only out of sight, but out of hearing, too.

Sylvia laughed a little uncomfortably. "She's been giving me a little advice," she answered, looking away from him, "but don't worry. I'm not going to take it."

After all, she reflected, Lolly's advice might do for Lolly. It might do for Fay, or for almost any other woman.

But, she knew that their system of keeping their husbands eternally jealous would never do for her. It would never work with Ranny!

The only way to hold him was to let him know every minute that she loved him, and nobody but him! To make him understand that no matter what he did, she would forgive him! To let him feel that no matter where he went, she was always waiting to take him back!

She knew that she never could do anything else, anyway. She loved him too much!

She looked up at him now, with no word of reproach for last night.

The hours of worry, when she hadn't known where he was, slipped out of her mind.

All she saw was his tired face, with puffs under the handsome eyes.

"I thought, from Lolly's telephone message, that your father was dying," she said, laying her hand on his arm, "but if he isn't, shan't we go home now? You must be awfully tired."

He nodded. "We thought at first that dad had had a stroke," he explained, "but when Dr. Buzzard got here, he said it had been just a spasm of some kind. Run up and get the kid, and we'll go home now. I could sleep for a week, I'm that all in."

Sylvia found Mother Phelps sitting alone in her room, crying. Her beautiful silver pompadour that always stood up like a bird's proud crest, was dank and flat this morning. And her eyelids were creased and swollen by her crying. She was frightened, and she broke into fresh sobs when she saw Sylvia.

"Dr. Buzzard says that all Jamie needs is a rest," she said, in a muffled tone, "but how can he go away and rest, with no one but Ranny to take hold of the business? He doesn't know anything about it—"

"But Thomas does!" Lolly's shrill, hard little voice came from the open doorway. "He knows all about it! He'd do just as well with it as father himself would."

But Mother Phelps shook her head, and sniffed. "No, I'm not going to let a stranger take over the job that belongs to Ranny!" she declared. "It Jamie goes away, we'll just have to put Ranny in his place, and trust to luck! I won't have Thomas Boyle put over my own son!"

In vain Lolly, who had a sharp little brain and knew how to look out after herself, argued that Thomas Boyle should be put in charge of the business.

Mother Phelps won her point. At the end of a week, when she took Father Phelps to Virginia Hot Springs for a long rest, Ranny became the temporary head of "Jamison Phelps and Son." And Thomas remained what he was—a rattling good salesman for the company.

Ranny enjoyed his new position of power, to the utmost.

He bought himself two new tailor-made suits, and some dark ties in place of the gayly striped ones that he usually wore.

He never got up in the morning, now, until nine o'clock.

This arrangement put Sylvia's work back a whole hour. She had to stop now, between music lessons to get Ranny his breakfast, or help him hunt for a collar button that had rolled under the dresser. But it was lovely to have him around the house for an extra hour in the morning, anyway.

It filled her with a sense of comfort just to pass the door of his bedroom, and look in to see him filling his pipe, or looking over the morning paper.

He rarely came home to dinner at night, now. He said that he was very, very busy. But once or twice when Sylvia called his office after six o'clock, he was not there.

One night, shortly before seven o'clock, he telephoned her.

"How would you like to come downtown for dinner?" he asked her.

She couldn't keep her pleasure out of her voice when she answered him. "Oh, I'd love to!" she cried. "Where shall I meet you—and how soon?"

"Can you make it in half an hour, at the Tangerine Garden?" he asked. She said she would.

She did more things in the next fifteen minutes than she would have believed possible. She started the water in the tub, and bundled up Junior, and ran down to ask Mrs. Pigeon, the janitress, if she could stay with him for a couple of hours.

While she dressed and brushed her hair, she danced in and out of Junior's tiny cubby-hole of a room, to see that Mrs. Pigeon was putting him to bed properly.

He seemed so small and so pale, that the very sight of him pulled at her heart-strings.

"Oh, I've got to buy a house, or rent one, or something!" she thought, despairingly, as the taxicab jolted its way downtown with her. "That baby's just got to have a backyard where he can play!"

Dr. Buzzard had told her so that very morning. Some babies, he said, were so husky that they got along despite a lack of fresh air and sunshine. But Junior wasn't that kind of a baby. He had never been very strong.

"If we only had even a front porch—" Sylvia thought, as the cab drew up at the brilliantly-lighted entrance of the Tangerine Garden.

It wasn't a garden at all, of course, but a great restaurant. It derived its name from the dark green foliage that hung from its ceiling. Among the leaves twinkled little orange lights that looked like tangerines, and cast a warm glow over the room.

Sylvia looked all around the crowded room for Ranny, but couldn't see him.

Then she felt a hand laid ever so lightly on her arm, and turned to look up into Petter Wilk's ugly, kindly face.

(TO BE CONTINUED)

After a long wait at the Tangerine Garden Ranny meets Sylvia. He has a girl with him. Why did Ranny ask Sylvia to come down town. You'll learn the solution in the next chapter.

"SICK-HEADACHES ?"

Torturing, maddening! Most always trace them to a lazy liver, constipation and a sour-sick stomach. Poison of fermented foods retained, instead of passing, is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissues, it causes congestion and that acute, sickening pain.

Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills quickly and surely remove the cause by stimulating the liver, toning up the bowel-nerves, making the poison-ferments move on and out, thus purifying the blood and curing the headaches. The effect is almost instantaneous.

Women, because of their sensitive organism are especially prone to periodical headaches, should not suffer if a drugstore is nearby—for Blackburn's Casca-Royal Pills have helped millions during the past 25 years. Non-secret formula, small, sweet, prompt and "Better Than Castor Oil." Two sizes 15c—30c.

The Advantages of this Lorain Equipped QUICK MEAL

Gas Range are not mere talking points to make sales,—they actually lighten your kitchen work and speed up cooking. Read these details:

The Neat-top is black enameled and cannot rust. Three of the lids over the burners are open and thereby the objections of a totally closed top are overcome.

The top burners which are shown here with the side of the stove cut away produce a more economical, efficient, and hotter flame. They have a non-rusting, non-clogging, aluminum burner head. They are interchangeable and will burn with either a very small flame or a very large flame by the mere turning of the valve handle.

A new broiler burner with fireclay radiant sections enables you to toast bread and broil meats, fish, and foul quickly, and deliciously, in a shorter time than by any other method. Radiant heat penetrates quicker and more thoroughly and prevents the loss of fine flavors and meat juices.

Other Points of Excellence are:

Lorain Oven Heat Regulator. With the Lorain you need never worry about "unlucky baking days," and you can cook an entire meal without watching, and canning is made so much easier.

No Visible Hinges and No Door Catches.

Boltless Front.

Concealed Manifold.

Porcelain Enameled Throughout. As easily cleaned as a platter.
